This country is big, prosperous, and its big men in business are learning to deal with big money. It seemed gigantic when Uncle Sam undertook the Panama canal, that might cost three hundred million dollars. Such a sum inspired awe. Now it is the small change of really big business.

Any number of concerns would handle a Panama contract.

Standard Oil, in California, absorbs Pacific Oil. The latter casually announces distribution of one hundred millions or so of securities to its stockholders. And the whole thing amounts to "only five hundred millions, maybe, a little more or less." That's one day's item, and soon forgotten.

One it was whispered that Standard Oil was a billion-dollar octopus, and fiercely it was chopped into many teeny-weeny pieces. "Lie there," said Uncle Sam.

Each little piece grew into an octopus on its own account, and now each one talks hundreds of millions only. Our octopuses are doing better.

Tennessee moonshiners produce a brand of "whisky" that would have prevented the evolution discussion had that whisky appeared earlier. It would have killed off all the higher apes before they had a chance to become men.

Lye, poison ivy and tobacco juice are included in this whisky, cheaper than corn whisky, more quickly made, with a real bite.

If your "genuine pre-war stuff turns out to be Tennessee's latest, you will know it. It scorches the mucous membrane from the mouth, causing the tongue to swell and protrude.

New Siberian gold fields, to which Russians only are admitted, are enormously rich, and may shift the gold balance from this proud nation to Bolshevik Russia. Five hundred million dollars' woth of gold, it is expected, will soon be added to Russia's supply.

What effect will it have on Uncle Sam, if Russia equals him as a gold owner? It wouldn't be hard for our best minds to resist the persuasive powers of so much gold.

And what effect will the new yellow treasure have on Russia and her rulers? Will they become more conservative as they become rich, and join the world chorus of governing high finance? Probably.

Joseph Pulitzer used to say often, "Brisbane, Brisbane, if you ever get any mony, which you never will, you will find that your opinions will change."

CITY SUFFERS AS COLD WAVE SWEEPS ACROSS BUCKEYE STATE

Chicago, New York and New England Hard Hit.

RIVER IS FROZEN

Frigid Spell Will Reach Its Peak Tonight.

With at least 25 dead, including three in Ohio, East Liverpool today is suffering from the cold wave which has gripped the east, west and New England.

No deaths were reported here, but due directly or indirectly to zero weather, 13 are dead in Chicago, four in New York, two in Cleveland, one in Cincinnati, three in Baltimore and two in Detroit.

Damage Through Fire.

Damage through fire had reached more than $1,500,000 in the last 24 hours.

Hundreds of fires, caused mostly by overheating, kept the fire departments in many cities working feverishly. Chicago's loss so far from blazes is estimated at $1,000,000, while big fires have been reported from Akron, O.; Wheeling, W. Va.; Terre Haute, Ind.; Williston, S. D.; Butte, Mont., and other points.

Three alarms were answered in East Liverpool, but the damage in each instance was slight.

Ban Gas for Pottery Kilns.

The thermometer readings here this morning seven degrees above the zero mark while Sunday morning the average was about five degrees above. Some thermometers registered zero and below zero Sunday but the larger and more reliable instruments read four and five degrees above.

Although demands for gas and coal were heavy today, there was little suffering from the frigid temperature for those who remained indoors. The Manufacturers' Light & Heat company banned the use of gas in firing pottery kilns. Coal dealers said that all orders are being filled as soon as they are received.

Due to ice in the Ohio river all navigation is expected to be suspended today. The Carnegie Steel company's tow boat Askard, with a tow of empty barges, en route from Mingo to Pittsburgh, passed here this morning, but this probably will be the last boat to attempt to get through the ice. The packets Senator Cordell, Liberty and Betsy Ann are reported to be tied up in Pittsburgh, waiting for the ice, which is now three inches thick, to go out. The river was frozen over Saturday night.

Their 16 children had been carried downstairs by attendants.

SOMERVILLE, Mass., Dec. 28.—Eight children were carried to safety in zero weather by firemen and police early today during a fire that for a time threatened to destroy the three-story wooden apartment block at Hathorn street and Broadway. PEACE LOOMS IN ANTHRACITE COAL TIE-UP OF 158,000 MEN

Settlement This Week of Bitter Strike is Predicted.

PARLEY CALLED

Miners and Operators Meet Tomorrow in New York.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Settlement this week of the bitter, long drawn out strike of 158,000 anthracite coal miners was predicted by informed observers today on the eve of the joint conference of operators and miners.

Union leaders and representatives of the operators will face each other across the conference table in this city tomorrow, bitterly hostile at the start. But, observers predict, after the first flurry of resentment and the usual harsh clash of words the conferees will get down to business and before the week is ended reach an agreement which will send the men, who have been on strike since September 1, "back to the mines."

Pressure to end the most calamitous suspension in the history of anthracite coal mining has been growing hourly. This pressure has come largely from the anthracite coal region of Pennsylvania, hard hit in a business way by the strike, and has been brought to bear upon operators as well as union leaders.

Highlights of Proposals.

The operators and miners will go into the conference in a belligerent frame of mind. Representatives of the operators will openly scoff at the Pinchot peace plan, accepted by the miners as a basis of negotiations, while the miners are expected to indicate their displeasure at the action of the operators in putting out advertisements in newspapers appearing in the coal regions Sunday, announcing that the men could go back to work at once at their old pay pending the outcome of the negotiations beginning tomorrow.

Union leaders saw in this offer of the operators an attempt to "break the morale" of the men.

The hightlights of the proposals to be made by both sides tomorrow are expected to be as follows:

1—The operators will demand immediate resumption of mining pending the negotiation of a new contract.

2—They will insist on arbitration of all points in dispute not settled by joint negotiations.

3—They will repect the peace plan

SALEM SCHOOL GIRL, 14, ELOPES WITH MECHANIC

Steps are Taken to Annul Yuletide Marriage.

COUPLE ARRESTED

Wedding Performed by Allegheny County Justice.

Steps to annul the marriage of their daughter, Gertrude, 14-year old Salem high school student to Edwin Flavell, 22, mechanic, who eloped to Pittsburgh Christmas eve, are being planned by Mr. and Mrs. John Lottman, Salem, parents of the bride, today.

The bride and her husband were arrested Saturday at the home of Flavell's sister, 820 Wylie avenue, Pittsburgh, three hours after they were married by an Allegheny county justice of the peace. The girl told Magistrate Charles W. Houston, in morals court, Sunday, that she and Flavell were met by a man at the city-county building, Pittsburgh, Saturday morning, who advised them that they would not be able to procure a marriage license as the bride-elect "looked too young."

The stranger suggested that they go to a justice of the peace who would obtain the marriage papers for them. The justice, it is claimed, did not ask the girl her age but directed the inquiry at Flavell. He replied in the affirmative, it is alleged, and the marriage was performed. The girl said that she had not given her consent to the marriage.

Parents of the girl asked Pittsburgh police to arrest the couple. John Lottman, father of the girl, went to Pittsburgh yesterday and asked that he be allowed to take the girl back to her home, promising that steps will be taken to annul the marriage. The girl is a junior in high school and her pa-

THREE FURNISH BOND AS WELLSVILLE PROBE IS GIVEN NEW TWIST

Lester Rowley, Raymond Carroll, William McKinnon and Anthony Dash Bound Over to Grand Jury After Pleading Not Guilty at Preliminary Hearing Before Mayor Blackburn.

McKINNON, UNABLE TO GIVE $3,000 BAIL, IS COMMITTED TO JAIL CELL

Rowley's Bond Fixed at $5,000 After Chief of Police Fultz, Upon Advice of Prosecutor Brookes, Reconsiders Substitution of Robbery Charges for Second Degree Murder Counts.

Pleading not guilty to charges of second degree murder following the death of Charles Devie, of Pittsburgh, Raymond Carroll, Lester Rowley and William McKinnon, of East Liverpool, and Anthony Dash, of Wellsville, were bound over to the grand jury under bonds of from $3,000 to $5,000 at a hearing Saturday afternoon before Mayor Frank C. Blackburn in Wellsville.

Attorney W. A. O'Grady, of Wellsville, represented the four youths accused in the case while Prosecuting Attorney Robert Brookes represented the state.

Rowley's bond was fixed at $5,000, while the other three youths were asked to furnish $3,000 each.

Rowley, Dash and Carroll were released Saturday night after friends and relatives of the trio had obtained their bonds. McKinnon was still in jail this morning.

As a result of the new turn in the case, which has been under investigation since Dec. 31, when Devie's body was found in a vacant building at 1321 Main street, Wellsville, the grand jury will consider the murder charges at a session on January 11.

Devie's Body Buried.

Chief of Police John Fultz Saturday announced his intention of withdrawing the murder charges originally filed against the young men, because of the fact that an examination of Devie's stomach by a Pittsburgh physician, to determine to what extent alcoholism figured in the man's death, was fruitless. He had planned to have the quartet answer charges of robbery.

But Saturday afternoon, prior to the hearing, he reverted to the murder count following a conference with Prosecutor R. M. Brookes, who cited section 6212-14, of the general code, as basis for the charge.

While the hearing here was under way, funeral services were being held for Devie at Flannery's morgue, Grant street, Pittsburgh. Burial was made in Pittsburgh.

The Central fire department was and Washington street, at 12:30 called to the Moose temple, Fourth o'clock this morning to extinguish a blaze, which broke out among Christmas decorations on the third floor of the building. A passerby discovered the fire and sent in the alarm.

Fire Chief Bryan was called to the home of William Robinson, 859 Ohio avenue, by a chimney fire this morning. There was no damage.

ASSESSORS TO LIST CANINES

Drastic Dog Tax Law Will Become Operative January 1.

The new dog law passed at the last session of the legislature will become operative on New Year's day when the assessors begin listing property for 1926 taxes.

The law makes all dogs above the age of eight months personal property, and assessors at the time they are making to collect head tax of one dollar on each male dog and two dollars on each female dog found within his jurisdiction.

The assessor collecting the dog tax shall be allowed a commission of ten per cent upon all taxes collected by him and shall turn into the county treasurer ninety per cent of such taxes collected by him, which shall be credited to the found for the compensation of persons who have suffered loss or damage on account of the destruction, loss or injury by dogs or sheep, lamb or goat, and claims for such loss or damages shall be presented to an allowed, when satisfactorily proven to the county court.

The law also provides that any dog above the age of eight months may be listed and assessed as other personal property, if the owner so desires. And any dog so taxed and which is kept as the law requires shall be protected by the law. Any person who unlawfully kills any such dog shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and if the dog be of an assessed value of more than $20, "shall upon conviction be imprisoned in the county jail at hard labor for a period not in excess of twelve months or fined not in excess of $200, either or both, in the discretion of the court."

Moreover, the owner of such dog many recover damages for its wrongful death, but in no case "can a recovery be had in excess of the assessed value of the dog." Nor can there be any recovery of damages at all unless both the head tax and the property tax have been paid.

Authority is given to justices of the peace and notaries public, within their jurisdictions, to summon three taxpayers to assess the damages caused by a dog attacking sheep or kindred animals. After due investigation, they shall make a sworn statement of their findings and file the same with the county court. If the complaint is not sustained the complainant shall pay all cost; otherwise the damages and costs may be collected from the dog owner.

Any surplus funds not needed for the satisfaction of claims and payment of expenses shall be credited to the teachers' funds of the different magisterial and independent school district of the county in proportion to their population.

It shall be unlawful for any unnaturalized foreign-born resident of the state to own or keep a dog.

Toll From Alcoholic Poisoning

The investigation of the death of a Pittsburgh man, whose body was found in a vacant building in Wellsville, and in connection with which four youths, who are alleged to have been in his company, are under arrest, should drive home to southern Columbiana county people the danger of using concoctions sold under the name of liquor.

Coroner J. M. Van Fossan, following an inquest, ruled that the man died of "alcoholism." And this verdict was sustained by the belief of Wellsville authorities, who expressed the opinion that it was another case of poison liquor.

According to Chief of Police John W. Fultz, of Wellsville, one of the four youths arrested pending an investigation, confessed that he purchased liquor and gave it to the man a few hours before he died.

This case emphasizes the facts about liquor given the public the other day by a United States district attorney of New York. He said:

"During the last two years the United States chemist attached to my office has analyzed 50,000 samples of seized liquor of all kinds. More than 98 per cent of these samples reveal synthetic liquor made from denatured alcohol.

"The rye whisky is not rye whisky; the Scotch is not Scotch; the gin is not gin; the brandy is not brandy. Almost 99 per cent of the whole 50,000 samples had been manufactured right here in New York from denatured alcohol treated to remove as much of the poison as possible."

There were 511 deaths from alcoholic poisoning in New York City up to December 1. Liquor in other cities is of about the same standard of purity and salubrity.

And despite repeated warnings of physicians, prohibition enforcement officials and others, people continue to flirt with blindness, paralysis and death by drinking it.

The "Doctrine" of Fascism

William Bolitho, in a masterly study of Italian Fascism for the New York World, sweeps away some confusing myths about that remarkable phase of Italian history. Mussolini and his followers talk a great deal of philosophic bosh about their movement. This American observer finds the whole thing quite simple.

"In short," he concludes, "the whole baggage of Fascist theory, its nationalism, its royalism, its gospel of violence, its anti-parliamentarism and its denunciations of the liberty of the press, its hierarchy and its strange interpretations of Italian history, are not clauses in a social theory but sophisticated world-spinning around the incidents of an energetic and unscrupulous man's march to power.

"The lessons of Fascism to the world are not in its poor and presumptuous theorizing, but in the deductions we can draw from its existence, thus: That in our present economic system, an industrial conflict is likely to turn into a coup d'etat and that a modern state can be held up and exploited and kept quiet by a band of adventurers.

"Fascism is a social disease, a fever of the body politic, brought on by disorganized industry and general depression. There is no more a doctrine of Fascism than there is a doctrine of smallpox."

This is better understood now in America than it was a while ago.

The Cost of Books

Winston Churchill, famous American novelist, says he has written some books in the last 10 years, but not for publication. "Like a child building houses in the sand," he does it for his own amusement.

Mr. Churchill can afford to do this. He has made enough money on past successes to indulge such a whim. But he gives a reason for it that is not altogether childish. He doesn't write books for publication any more because he doesn't like the way publishers handle them. He says he is "fed up with the modern purveyor of books."

His chief objection to them seems to be the prices they charge for books. Today, says Mr. Churchill, books cost so much that they are beyond the reach of those who love them.

"A good book is to be cherished and kept and read and re-read. People who can't afford to pay $2 or $2.50 for a book must now get them out of libraries. Something is lost. They miss the association of good books and the pleasure of seeing them in the house as familiar as friends, and re-reading them occasionally."

Fortunately there are libraries to furnish books for those who can't buy them. In this respect America is far better provided for than foreign countries. But foreign countries don't need the libraries so much, because they sell books far cheaper than we do, and there are usually editions of good works within the reach of almost anyone.

What the American farmer wants is more cash for his crops. It's Europe that wants more credit. (Which, by the way, would give the A. F. more cash for his crops).

There seems to be much honest doubt this year as to whether Santa Claus uses a sleigh, motor truck, freight-plane or dirigible.

Those 10,000,000-year-old dinosaur eggs brought from Asia probably taste very much like our own storage eggs.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Diary of a modern Pepys. Aroused by ringing of the telephone and it was Rudolph Valentino who usually arises at the first cock's crow and so to admire again the robe Roy Howard brought me from China.

Later for a brisk walk to Grant's Tomb and ate seven flap-jacks at an inn on upper Broadway and met Zoe Beckley and we talked of the passing of T. E. Niles, who was our managing editor on the Evening Mail.

Home and tried to read a book of poems but with no zest soever nor could I write a line so with my wife to a restaurant where they made us stand in line and I left in a feelish pet. So to bed.

Manhattan swims up from its deep welt of sleep with a stimulating clatter. At dawn there is the clop of hoofs on asphalt. Horses seem to be used only in the early morning. Newspaper wagons hurl off their bundles at street corners. Mail trucks siren across town.

Night workers trudging home whistle cheerfully. The heartiest laughs in New York are in the early morning. Even around Times Square is the joyous bark of dogs welcoming another day. The redcaps making white marble spotless around Grand Central send songs echoing to the blue domed ceiling.

Shoe shiners are among earliest street merchants, pointing their accusing finger—a happy crew. The window washers too have a cheerio. Then there is a lull in the tempo. The blasé ists stream to their jobs. They have a glumness. To them it is just another day.

Fat brokers lolling to work in limousines peer out upon the world with heavy-lidded indifference. The traffic snarl and the pedestrianic push work their spell. Nerves are taut. And by noon it is every man for himself.

Any New York doctor will tell you the prevailing ailment of the city is "nerves." Every phobia is expressed—those who fear crowds, high places, subway, elevated and even the friendly open spaces of the Central Park meadows.

Two very rich men are such confirmed hypochrondiacs that personal physicians accompany them to the theatre and other places of amusement. At home or the office they are constantly in touch with them. If they travel at home or abroad their medical advisers go along. To all outward appearances they are vigorous and healthy and one wonders how they would fare if they were too poor to wheedle their symptoms.

This is a story—told for a true one—that would almost click in a Broadway drama. Scene: Waffle shop near type turbaned in red bandana and Columbus Circle. Hefty black mammy wearing gingham apron in window turns waffles to a crisp brown. Man stands on sidewalk watching as though fascinated. She looks up. Recognition and rushes to sidewalk and hugs him with a "Lor' bless you, honey, it's yo' poah old mammy." The story is the young man came to work in New York after his college days. His parents a year ago suffered heavy financial losses. They had to dismiss all the servants and placed the mammy with friends in New York. She didn't like it and drifted to the waffle job.

Perhaps no one will believe this either, but I saw it. A tire fell from the back of a limousine bowling up Fifth avenue. It rolled among a group of ditch diggers at 47th street and one amazed red shirted worker was completely "rung" like the cane at a county fair. I waited for a quarter of an hour but nobody came as a claimant. Any second-hand store would give the worker a week's pay for it—and probably did.

Since 1917, not a single well drilled in the Mene Grande oil field of Venezuela has failed to make good.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Training Store Employees.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—A signal honor has recently been conferred upon an American woman by the French government. Through the Chamber of Commerce of Paris Miss Isabel Craig Bacon, special agent for Retail Selling, Federal board for Vocational Education, has been asked to spend two months in Paris assisting in the permanent organization of the Ecole Technique de Vente. This new technical school for salespeople opened for a four months' trial session in November.

In the formal request which M. Kempf, president of the Chambre de Commerce de Paris made to J. C. Wright, director of the Federal board for Vocational Education, he stated that they greatly desired the services of Miss Bacon at the end of this trial session so that she might assist them with their examinations and also with their plans for the permanent development of the school. The request of M. Kempf that Miss Bacon be granted leave in order to assist in this important work has been granted by the board and she is now making preparations for her trip.

Last spring Mlle. Louli Sanua was commissioned by the French government to make a survey of the commercial schools in the United States. This commission came through the Director of the Paris Chamber of Commerce, since that organization is charged with control of all commercial schools in Paris.

As a result of the survey it was decided to create in Paris a school similar to the Prince School of Education for Store Service which is a graduate school of Simmons college of Boston. The Prince school offers a one-year course preparing its students to train and to teach various groups of store workers, those employed and those entering the retail field. The students receive not only theoretical training but practical experience through the cooperation of a number of large departmena stores in Boston.

Each student spends one day a week in a departmena store gaining practical selling knowledge. During the Christmas rush the school suspends classes and the students work in the stores in executive capacities. They may serve as floor managers, assistants in adjustment office, supervisors of new sales-persons, managers of gift shops, or supervisors of juniors. And they are paid for this part of their training.

Originally for Saleswomen.

When the Prince school was first organized in 1905 training was given to saleswomen only. The work taken up included salesmanship, store system, textile, color and design, arithmetic, hygiene and English. All of these subjects weer taught in direct relation to the pupils' work as saleswomen. This was all with a view to increasing their efficiency and broadening their outlook.

The results of this course proved so satisfactory to all concerned that it was decided to establish a training course for educational directors who would be fitted to undertake the directing and teaching of workers within the stores themselves. This course is now the chief work of the school. Students who enter this school with a bachelor's degree from an accredited college may be candidates for the degree of Master of Science from Simmons college upon satisfactory completion of the course.

Miss Bacon is a graduate of the Prince school, and this is perhaps one of the reasons she was called to the attention of Mlle. Sauna. However, her entire career has been one that admirably fits her for the work France is asking of her. Since 1913 she has devoted herself to educational work in retail stores and sho is now one of the foremost authorities on the subject.

Her story is another evidence that women are now stepping right along with the men to success. While she was stil in college her father and brother died and she decided to go into business. She was at that time a professional choir and concert singer and she continued with this even after embarking upon a commercial career.

Employed in Ohio.

Miss Bacon was employed in one of the largest department stores in Ohio as assistant to the superintendent when the store management decided to send her to Boston to take a course at the Prince school. After she had completed this course she returned and became educational director in the store. She remained in this capacity until 1915 when she was called to Boston as th heaed of a newly created department of salesmanship in the public schools. The school officials desired someone who had had store experience, as well as theoretical training. Boston, incidentally, was the city in the United States to offer in the public schools an organized training course to prepare young people for store work.

Considering Miss Bacon's experience, it was but natural when the Federal board for Vocational Education was organized that she should be asked to act as special agent for retail training. It is her duty to promote the establishment of training courses in department stores and the introduction of training courses in high schools, colleges and universities which will prepare young people for store work.

It is being realized that selling is a profession and therefore special training is not only desirable but necessary. The day is passing when a department store's sales force is largely composed of those whose lack of training makes it impossible for them to obtain employment any place else. Education and refinement are becoming as requisite to those employed as saleswomen in large stores as it is to

Steel, Railroad And Auto Chiefs Predict Good Year

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—An optimistic outlook for the steel, railroad and automobile industries in 1926 is indicated in the public statements of the heads of United States Steel corporation, issued today. These corporations enjoyed unusual prosperity in 1925, and their present physical condition, together with the influx of a good volume of advance orders for next year, point to the continuance of large net earnings next year.

Thaw Frozen Water Pipes.

AKRON, Dec. 28.—Akron suffered an estimated loss of $150,000 in 12 fires Sunday and Sunday night, keeping every member of the fire department on the jump for 24 hours. The principal victim was the United States Stoneware company, whose plant was destroyed at a loss of $100,000. The blaze started while workmen were trying to thaw frozen water pipes.

The Case Produce company had a loss of $5,000, and the 10 other fires brought the total to $45,000 more, according to Chief John Mertz.

The cold made the fight against the flames a serious matter, and nozzle men had to be relieved every few minutes while the stoneware company blaze continued.

dently wish it known that he has nothing to do with their paper.

They may be wrong about that.

There is only one kind of brains, and Insull has plenty of the one kind. If he had a newspaper, and would take his mind off other things, he would be apt to make a great newspaper success. The fact that he is rich, and would fight for his readers not influenced by other "Insulls," would help. He would surely make more of a success than any committee. A committee cannot run a newspaper, or nurse a baby.

A rich American girl thought she wanted a count, married him, had a baby, found she did not want him.

Count Salm, proud father, wants that baby. The small child plays with too many toys, while detectives watch that it may not be carried away by the loving father.

Many fathers, being primitive barbarians, will say "that father has rights." What would they say if a hen laid an egg and they saw the rooster walking off with it?

They would say: "Hold on! You didn't lay that egg."

Prof. Terman, assisted by psychologists has selected in California "the 1,000 most highly gifted children" of the state and now asks for $5,000,000 for educational facilities "to give genius a chance."

The professor and many others think too much is spent to educate "stupid and mediocre" children that never will amount to much anyhow. The suggestion is to begin at the beginning and discourage the birth of so many children born of ordinary, inferior people.

How the 1,000 young geniuses are selected is not generally known. But it is probable that some of the California youthful geniuses have escaped attention.

Genius is often unrecognized even in adults until after death.

As for recognizing it in childhood, how would you have picked out Lincoln, Edison or Marconi among other children?

And as to discouraging the birth of children among "medicore" people, how will you recognize medicority? Dou you judge by the outside of the bungalow or the apparent financial prosperity? If so, you might have kept off the earth that same Lincoln, born in a shanty with no windows and in a bed resting on a dirt floor.

Better perhaps, let nature alone. She is the best judge of genius. And the best children are those brought into thet world by the strongest affection. It is not the size of the automobile or bany account that tells.

To stabilize the French franc and protest French property owners, a great patriotic French loan is suggested. It would be a first mortgage for $40,000,000 on all French industries. No question as to the value of such security, for the industries to be mortgaged are easily worth ten nad twenty times the amount of the loan.

The difficulty might be in realizing on the mortgage. A mortgage on industry has for its real security human beings that run the industries. Owners sometimes forget that. And there can be no valid mortgage on human beings.

There is, however, in France, in the industry, intelligence and thrift of the French people a wealth 1,000 per cent greater than the total French debt. If politics could be swept aside with part of expenditures for war, it ought to be easy to make the French budget balance and restore French exchange.

made by Governor Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania as "impractical."

4—They will fight for a five year agreement with provision for an anual readjustment of wages and working conditions in the light of changing economic conditions.

5—The miner will ask the operators to consider the Pinchot plan as a basis for negotiations.

6—The miners will express resentment over the publicity campaign of the operators to induce the miners to go back to work.

7—They will demand continuance of the "check off" system by which miners' dues to the union are automatically deducted from their pay.

8—The miners will accept a long contract, but insist on a scale of fixed wages.

Both Sides Silent

In advance of tomorrow's meeting, neither side would talk for publication. The preliminaries to the joint conference are expected to begin tonight when Major W. W. Inglis, the chairman, and his associates of the operators' scale committee will arrive here from the coal region. The representatives of the miners, headed by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, who spent Christmas at his home in Springfield, Ill., will arrive tomorrow morning.

Impetus to the belief that the strike will be ended within a week or so was given by the reported prediction of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that the strike would be settled within 10 days. Green is due in New York Wednesday and it is not improbable that he will advise Lewis and associates.

Flavell, who is said to have met the girl about two months ago, is being held by the Pittsburgh police pending an investigation. The authorities are also conducting an investigation into the action of the justice who obtained the license.

City Suffers

age when the river ice breaks. The wickets in the locks from Wheeling south were lowered Sunday and those from Wheeling to Pittsburgh are being dropped today.

Street car and railroad officials declared that all schedules are being maintained despite the cold weather.

Telephone communication to outside places was crippled by the cold wave. About 18 of the 35 toll lines leading out of the city were out of communication yesterday, but repair crews were on the job this morning. Indications were that service would be restored to normalcy by evening. Telephone officials declared that local lines were not affected by the frigid weather.

Many automobiles were frozen on the streets yesterday and had to be thawed out with hot water before their motors could be started. Others had to be towed to garages with frozen radiators and other mechanical trouble developing from freezing temperatures.

Columbus Coldest City.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 28. — Columbus was the coldest city in a radius of more than 200 miles early today, according to the government weather bureau here.

Following a low point of six degrees below zero Sunday morning, the mercury today fell to one degree below shortly before daybreak.

Cincinnati followed with zero weather temperature. Toledo was two above, Cleveland four, Pittsburgh, Pa., two above, Parkersburg, W. Va., two above, Fort Wayne, two above, Indianapolis, zero.

Reports from other Ohio sections will not be available until local stations make their weekly report. None are believed to have suffered much lower temperature than Columbus registered Sunday.

Tales of suffering and privation followed close on the reports of extreme cold weather over the week-end. Numerous fires were started by overheated stoves and furnaces.

No relief is in sight for at least two days, the weather bureau declared.

Three Dead in Ohio.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 28.—With the temperature ranging from zero to a few degrees above, Cleveland and northern Ohio was suffering today from the continued cold snap ushered in with the Christmas holiday. More than 400 men were employed yesterday cleaning the heavy snowfall from the main streets, and 200 additional continued the work throughout the night.

Two deaths were attributed indirectly to the cold weather here. John Peterson, 56, died on a street car of heart disease, induced by exhaustion, while John Seeley, 33, truck driver, a victim of pneumonia, died in a police ambulance as he was being taken to a hospital.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 28.—Winter hit Cincinnati a stunning blow today, sending the mercury down to almost five degrees below zero, the lowest temperature of the season. It was indirectly responsible for one death, two accidents and nearly 100 fires in Cincinnati, Covelngton and Newport, and freezing of the Ohio river and ice jams. The fires caused a total damage of about $33,000.

The Ohio river was clogged with ice floes this morning. River traffic was virtually at a standstill, while Licking river is covered with ice over an inch thick, and employes of the several coal companies that operate on the river are at work breaking the ice around the coal barges.

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 28.—Thirteen are dead from cold and exposure, more than 200 fires had been fought in the 24 hours ending at 6 a. m. today and hundreds are suffering in a cold wave which continued this morning without promise of relief for another 24 hours.

DEATH ROLL

William Sexton.

William Sexton, four year old son of Mrs. Ethel Brand, of Klondyke, died yesterday morning at the family residence following a brief illness of blood poisoning.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 at the family residence. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

The death list was the greatest in Chicago and its environs in years.

The lowest official temperature today was three below, a rise of five degrees since Sunday morning. Unofficial reports, however, ranged from 13 to 22 below in Chicago suburbs.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Fumes escaping from a gas heater, which had been left burning all night because of the terrific cold, killed a father and son and overcame a woman in an apartment at No. 52 State street early today. The dead:

James Watson, 40.
Leopold Watson, his son, 18.
Catherine Johnson, 29, was overcome but was revived.

Moderating in East.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The East, in the frigid grip of the coldest weather of the season, today was experiencing slightly moderating temperatures but the mercury still hovered close to 10 above zero. It dropped as low as seven above in New York.

Three dead in New York and vicinity was the toll resulting from the cold wave. Many suffered from exposure. Several deaths directly or indirectly due to the cold, were reported in other eastern cities.

Continued cold northwest winds was the forecast for this part of the country.

The coldest temperature in the East was recorded at Tupper Lake, N. Y.—28 degrees below zero. Below zero wether prevailed throughout New England.

Stormy conditions prevailed along the Atlantic seaboard. Radio reports told of trans-Atlantic liners, enroute to New York, battering gales and heavy seas.

In New York City, thousands of homeless sought food and shelter in Missions and lodging houses.

New England's Death Toll

BOSTON, Dec. 28—Leaving in its wake a death toll of three, with several others in hospitals, the cold wave that held New England in its grasp was broken today.

A slowly rising temperature was discounted somewhat, however, by a strong northwest wind.

New England's cold wave death list follows:

EDWIN C. DOLLIVER, 79, wholesale grocer, died in a taxicab here, death being superinduced by cold.

PATRICK McSWEENEY, 65, dropped dead from exposure in a street in Worcester.

Mrs. Mary Coughlin, 48, died from effects of cold in Providence, R. I.

South Is Shivering.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 28. — Three deaths marked the toll today of Baltimore's near-zero weather. Forty-three fires in the last 24 hours established a new record here.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 28.—The south shivered today in the grip of the coldest wave of the year, with the mercury ranging from freezing in the extreme South to zero and below.

Records of years' standing were shattered as the thermometer dropped.

Relief Is Promised.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Some relief from the severe cold wave that has gripped the country from the Rocky mountains to the Atlantic was promised today by the United States weather bureau. Wintry weather also has extended as far south as Alabama.

The cold spell will reach its peak tonight, and probably will be followed by rising temperatures generally throughout the east and middle west, according to the bureau.

Washington suffered its coldest weather in years. The temperature dropped to 12 degrees above zero.

Schooner Destroyed by Fire

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 28.—The last six-masted schooner on the Atlantic coast, the Edward J. Lawrence, was destroyed by fire as she lay at anchor

The growing popularity of silk, rayon, and lisle hosiery in South Africa accounts largely for the increasing sales of American hosiery.

The rapid economic recovery of France and Italy is due largely to the installation of up-to-date machinery.

To End Severe Cough Quickly, Try This

For real results, this old home-made remedy beats them all. Easily prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare, and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

SOVIET LAUDS COL. MITCHELL IN AIR PROBE

"Reds" See American Press Back of Aviator.

ANALYZE CASE

Charge U. S. Seeks to Lead in Aerial Affairs.

MOSCOW—Colonel "Billy" Mitchell's valiant battle for his belief in a re-organization of America's air service has found an attentive audience and an echo in the Soviet union. Communist comments are complimentary to the colonel for his courageous candor, and they prophesy that because the American press is with him, he will carry his point against all official opposition.

But, declare the Soviet critics, the whole aviation inquiry in America proves that the United States is losing its trust in geographical isolation, and that the talked-of plan for a second disarmament conference in Washington will accomplish nothing except possibly a sort of pact against the Soviet union.

Says U. S. Seeks Power

Pravada, the official organ of the Communist party, makes itself the spokesman for the Soviet viewpoint, and analyzing Mitchell's published statements, declares that they mean he wants America to become "boss of the world's air." And, the newspaper continues, the fact that the American press supports him means that America itself wants the same thing.

"The United States wants disarmament for Europe alone. The debtors must pay, and should not allow themselves the luxury of armaments.

"However, there is one factor which unites America with Europe, and that is their mutual hostility to the Soviet union. In Locarno a picture was painted to show that the only obstacle now to European peace was the Soviet union. Now comes reports from Washington that the Soviet union 'who does not want to disarm' has already been brought into the discussion over the coming disarmament conference."

This makes it timely, the newspaper declares, to refute America's claim to pacific inclinations. The only reason why the United States ever thought of disarming, says the communist organ, is because America knows she could arm herself quicker in an emergency than any other country, but this only proves, according to the Bolsehviks, that America wants disarmament for any other but pacific reasons.

"And what about armaments in America since the first disarmament conference?" asks Pravada. "The construction of the airplane carriers 'Lexington' and 'Saratoga' at an approximate cost of $100,000,000 looks like disarmament! The expenditure of nearly $7,000,000,000 on the navy and of more than $2,000,000,000 on the air fleet looks like disarmament!

Forecasts Big Force

"And the expenditures for military aviation will increase since Mitchell's incitement of a regular aviation bacchanalia. He wants to increase the air fleet to 4,800 planes. He insists on the development of civil aviation for the benefit of military aviation. He demands the government should co-operate with Ford in mass production of airplanes.

"These facts, together with Morgan's interest in aviation and dirigible transport, and the establishment of the National Air Transport company with a capital of $10,000,000, all bear witness to America's ambition."

AL G. FIELDS SHOW COMING

Great Cast Will Appear in Edition of Minstrels.

With a greater cast than ever before assembled in a minstrel show, the 38th Annual Edition of the Al G. Field Minstrels will open an engagement at the Ceramic theatre soon. Old time minstrelsy will predominate in this season's production, but there will be plenty of spice, pep and comedy to afford a solid evenings entertainment.

Bert Swor, called the premier blackface comedian of America, has returned to the cast of the Field Minstrels after several years' absence, and every lover of minstrelsy and song and comedy will be glad to welcome him back. Celebrating his return, he will present an entirely new brand of humor, in Bert's own style.

And Jack Richards and Billy Church—it seems America will never tire of hearing these two Columbus boys sing together, or separately—just so they sing. They have gained a nation-wide reputation, and have made many songs famous.

The first part scene of the show is laid in the South, at the time of the Civil war. The prologue depicts the cotton-picking scene, where all the younger generation of the negroes are pictured at work in a cotton field. Old Mammy and Uncle Remus complete the picture and the air of "Dixie" is predominant. Other scenes are laid on the lawn of an old Southern Colonial mansion, and the costuming is especially elaborate for these scenes.

Many Killed in Wreck.

MADRID, Dec. 28.—Many persons were reported to have been killed when an express train bound for Cartagena plunged down an embankment near Muricia today.

Relief trains have been dispatched to the scene.

THE STORY OF A GIRL WHO MARRIED FOR MONEY

Laurel was beginning to love the villa. She was finding about it the perpetual atmosphere of sunrise, with the songs of birds attracted by the protective trees and frequent feedings, trellises of vines, stone benches, a central pool of glistening water surrounded my sentinel poplars. She had taken upon herself the feeding of the birds; her mornings in the garden with them she looked forward to. In the afternoon she liked to lie beside the pool, looking down into the crystal clear water at its teeming population. She had found a spot shilded by the poplars and vines from observation from the house, and here she retreated almost daily. It was pleasant relief from the confining influence of the house.

Here, in the afternoon, Noble found her. She supposed he had happened upon her "nest" by chance.

"Day dreaming?"

She jumped up. "No—the fish. Nothing is more gracefully beautiful than golden fishes serenely gliding. Just watch them."

"Poetical!" There appeared to be something on his mind. She waited expectantly.

"I have something for you.

"Oh what is it?" There was the eagerness and curiosity of the child in her voice.

From an inside coat pocket he drew out a black leather case and opened it. Pearls!

Laurel bobbed a kiss upon his cheek. "You perfect dear."

"Of course you have one lovely string of pearls, but your pretty throat will be attractive with two."

Laurel kissed him again. "Bless you, dear. You need not think you must bring me something every time yuo go away. Of course anything you would bring me would be nice, but—"

Noble caught her up and pressed his lips upon hers. "I'd give the world to you if only you wiggled one little finger at me coaxingly."

Laughing, she held up a finger and wiggled it.

"It's your. Take it."

A pensive mood captured Laurel. "Noble, dear, let's go down to the lodge. Let's stay down there this week-end, just the two of us."

"That would be nice, but not this week-end, dear. We'll plan on it for next week probably."

"Why not this week-end? Are we going somewhere?"

"No, but I may be busy. Come, let's go in. I think I'd like a cup of tea."

She walked with him over the cobble stones, set into the lawn, jumping from one to the other with the vivacity of youth and keeping Noble agile.

In the hall they met Marion. "I would like to speak to you, Marion. Come in the library, please," her father said. She followed cautiously, looking at Laurel impudently. Mrs. Harwood found reason to go upstairs.

"I have had to speak to you about your carelessness several times. You seem to take joy in destruction. What is your excuse for smashing up my beautiful lamp?"

Marion shifted her glance. "I didn't break it."

Noble evidenced surprise at the denial.

"And I know who told you that I did," Marion pressed. "She's a liar."

"Marion! Marion! Don't ever let me hear you say that again." He paused. "I do not ask you to love my wife, but I demand that you respect her."

His daughter's lip was quivering. "Well, if she's told you I broke the lamp, then she wasn't telling the truth."

"Possibly she was mistaken."

"Oh, she knows who broke it, all right."

"Well, young lady, who did?" There was a tinge of sarcasm in his tone.

"It was a boy who was here the other night . . . I had a little party."

"A little party? You didn't tell ME you were going to entertain in my absence."

"Oh, it wasn't anything formal. Just a party."

"And some of your guests got drunk and smashed up my lamp. I see it all now. Did Mrs. Harwood give you permission to hold this party?"

Marion's response was a burst of tears. "Oh, Daddy, she's making me so unhappy."

Noble was impatient, but moved.

"How is she doing that, Marion?" His voice was less stern.

"Ask Auntie, she knows," his daughter blubbered.

"But I don't quite understand."

"Ask Auntie," Marion sobbed again.

For several minutes he sat silently regarding her. What had happened? . . . He could guess. There had been the inevitable clash. Why? . . . For a moment he thought of going to Laurel for an explanation. Then he changed his mind.

Half an hour later he was hearing what Mrs. Brent Daly thought of Laurel.

"Go Easy, Mabel," Is Musical Comedy At Strand Theatre

White you are romping around this week, just drop into the Strand theater and give Claude Long's 1926 addition of "Buzzin' Around" the once over if you are looking for a good, fast evening's entertainment. "Buzzin"Around" is a show that starts with a smile, runs into a laugh and ends with a riot of roars. It is just one thing after another, for you will find a little vaudeville, musical comedy, farce comedy; in fact, everything that is entertaining all rolled into one big combination of enjoyment.

The "Buzzin' Around" company presents nothing but snappy bills.

The opening bill today is Charles George's latest Broadway success, "Go Easy, Mabel," which has never before been offered at popular prices. Mr Long, in engaging his cast, spared no expense in securing the cream of the musical comedy profession. Such well known favorites as Marvel Shackelton, "Bluey" Morey, Bartley Cahill, Kitty Axton, Blanch Larson, Billie Creech, Cy Reinhart, Erney DeVoy, Billy Morgan.

The orchestra will be under the direction of Ernest Creech, who is responsible for the score and lyrics.

During the action of the play many high class vaudeville specialties of the big time caliber will be offered, together with a flock of ear-teasing musical numbers.

The situation in the jewelry manufacturing centers of west Germany were never worse, due to shortage of capital, competition of French goods, high foreign tariffs and reduced local demand.

those in business offices. A thorough knowledge of her stock is also necessary to the efficient saleswoman.

That the United States is advanced in this program of raising the standards of store employees is indicated by the fact that France not only has sent a representative to make a survey of the educational methods used, but is preparing a program along similar lines.

The new French school for training saleswomen will be conducted in two sections. First, the training of people already employed in stores, and second, the training of educational directors or teachers. The latter will be on a post graduate level—that is, it is preferred that students taking this course should have had previous college work.

Americans may be proud of their women when their business efficiency is recognized to such an extent that a foreign government formally requests the assistance of one in organizing such a venture as the Ecole Technique de vente.

N. B. O. P. URGES COOLIDGE TO ATTEND OUTING

Mayor Brown Writes to President Regarding Reunion.

OTHERS INVITED

Affair Will be Held at Meyers Lake, Canton.

The National Brotherhood of Operative Potters will leave no stone unturned to bring President Calvin Coolidge to their second annual reunion, which will be held at Meyers' Lake park, near Canton, next June.

Congressman Frank Murphy of Steubenville carried the invitation of the Brotherhood to the nation's chief executive just after the opening of congress early in December. President Coolidge took the invitation under advisement and will give his answer early in the new year, it is understood.

At the request of Brotherhood officials, Mayor Charles Brown recently wrote the president as follows:

"We have learned that the Honorable Frank Murphy, congressman from the state of Ohio, has extended to you an invitation to attend the annual reunion of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, at Canton, next June.

"As mayor of the city of East Liverpool, where are located the headquarters of not only the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters but also the United States Potters' association, I am honored and more than pleased on behalf of our fair city and its citizens to have you as our most honored guest on the occasion of the 1926 reunion."

Steps have been taken to make next year's affair even more of a success than was this year's reunion, when 15,000 potters and their friends from three states assembled at the Canton resort. The speakers were Governor A. V. Donahey, of Columbus; William Green, Coshocton, president of the American Federation of Labor; and T. J. Duffy, Columbus, chairman of the state industrial commission and former president of the N. B. of O. P.

'No, No, Nanette,' Musical Triumph, Here Thursday Night

Song Hits Feature Reigning Sensation of New York, Chicago, London and Australia.

It is welcome news that "No, No, Nanette," now the reigning sensation of New York, London and Australia, and which played to solid capacity for more than a year in Chicago and completely stole the hearts of Boston theatre-goers for seven months, as it did for 27 weeks in Philadelphia, is booked for Thursday, Dec. 31, at the Ceramic theatre.

"No, No, Nanette," with its famous song hits, "I Want To Be Happy" and "Tea For Two," is the outstanding musical sensation of this generation, its irresistible toe-tickling melodies being literally sung nightly in all the great amusement capitals of the world.

When H. H. Frazee opened "No, No, Nanette" originally in Chicago, he looked for possibly eight good weeks at the Harris theatre. So, he felt safe in promising his new musical comedy for a fairly early engagement in New York. However, "No, No, Nanette" soon began to make history in the Windy city. The town went wild over "I Want To Be Happy" and all the other song hits. And it laughed itself into hysterics over the brilliant humor of the book. The girls of the ensemble were declared to be the pick of the revues in smartness and beauty. The theatre reached a solid and sustained "sell out" record and the booking was extended indefinitely, rounding out 500 performances.

A cast of stellar excellence, headed by John Hyams and Leila McIntyre, is promised by Mr. Frazee, presenting such sterling musical comedy favorites as Dorothy Newell, Eulalie Young, Roland Woodruff, Floyd English, Heen Case, Mildred Joy, Janearl Johnson, Myrtle Miller and a dozen or more other principals or equal renown. The chorus is an exceptionally interesting one. The same picturesque scenic production and startling costumes will be in evidence as well as the gorgeous garden of girls, which has been a conspicuous feature in "No, No, Nanette's" conquest of two hemispheres.

GOOD OUTLOOK FOR BUSINESS

Continued Prosperity is Predicted for District in 1926.

Industrial activity in the Lisbon district is more pronounced now than for many months, and there is marked indication that the business depression has been passed. Manufacturers in this territory hold the view that 1926 will turn out to be a good year, and this opinion is based upon the volume of 1926 business now on file.

The Wright Manufacturing company, producers of hoists and similar equipment, is working full time and from three to four nights per week. Last fall operations at this plant were on a part time basis.

At the plant of the American Vitrified Products company, production of hot tops for the steel industry is steady, the requirements of purchasers being heavier just now than for some months past.

Steady production is the record of the Excelsior Fire Clay company, which did not lose a day during 1925 because of the business depression. Future orders with this interest for 1926 delivery are heavy, and the plant will continue on a steady basis.

Considerable new business has been filed with the Lisbon plant of R. Thomas Sons and with their new tunnel kiln in operation a heavier production during 1926 than that of 1925 will follow.

The plant of the Lisbon Cement company is also in steady operation, also that of the Saratoga Fire Clay company.

The mines of the Seger Fuel company at Power Point and those of the Kirk Dunn company at Legtown are in steady production, both mines working on a full time basis, and with demand heavy.

Needy Families Assisted.

The Salvation Army of Salem did not overlook the needy in the Lisbon district in the distribution of Christmas baskets. Not many were required for the Lisbon territory. Several families about Lisbon were given Christmas baskets by "unknown" donors.

Enjoy Eating

If your blood is pure~ You like to eat

REMEMBER how you used to come in from play hungry as a bear? Bet you could hardly wait until Dad filled your plate!

And didn't everything taste good! Seemed like you never would get enough. Didn't you feel good those days. Yes, they were the red blooded days.

Why isn't your appetite like that now? Why don't you like to eat just the same as you did in those days? Here's the reason—your system is simply starving for the lack of rich, red blood! You've lost your appetite because you've lost your red blood power. No red blood nourishment for the tissues of your body.

Build up your blood to where it is pure and red and rich and watch that appetite come back! S. S. S. is the way to do it! S. S. S. helps Nature build red-blood-cells — builds them by the millions!

You'll get hungry and you'll enjoy eating when S. S. S. helps Nature build pure red cells in that weak blood of yours. And you'll look better—your skin will be clear and unblemished—your flesh will become firm and solid—strength and power will come to your flabby muscles—you'll be yourself again.

S.S.S.

S. S. S. will bring back the joy of eating—the joy of living. It's done it for thousands for generations. It's going to do it for you, too.

Get S. S. S. at your druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.

Automobile Owners Slow Obtaining New 1926 License Plates

County Auditor Charles E. Hamilton, chief deputy registrar and Sheriff Geerfe Wright today announced that the state automobile department has issued no time extension order and that the instructions from Columbus are to pick up every one operating a motor vehicle Jan. 1 bearing a 1925 license plate.

"People can blame no one but themselves," Auditor Hamilton and Sheriff Wright declared. "The newspapers have given the matter wide publicity, and ample warning has been given. The time is drawing short, and there is bound to be an eleventh-hour rush, all of which will mean that many will not be able to procure their license plates should they wait until the last day."

The apathy in obtaining 1926 plates is noticeable all over the county. A few over 700 plates have been issued at Lisbon for the central part of the county, and at Leetonia only 290 plates have been issued out of a possible list of 600 motor owners in that territory. This average is said to be held in the offices of all other district deputy registrars. According to the record of bills of sale now on file, over 12,000 licenses remain to be taken out before Jan. 1.

TINNEY FUNERAL HELD SATURDAY

The funeral of Mrs. Rosann Tinney, aged 92 years, considered one of the oldest residents in Centre township was held at the Lisbon Nazarene church Saturday afternoon, interment being in the Lisbon cemetery.

Mrs. Tinney was born on a farm just west of what is now known as North Beaver street, Lisbon, and before the Civil war removed to the south. She then returned north with her children and has since resided in Lisbon, where she died Christmas eve of complications due to old age.

Auto Wrecked.

An automobile owner by Patrick Redington, 79 Perry street, Salem, failed to make the turn at McCracken's Corners on the Salem-Lisbon road and was partially wrecked by crashing against an old fashioned rail fence north of a blind billboard. No one was injured. The car was towed to a Salem garage.

Masonic Dance Arranged.

The Masonic dancing club of Lisbon has announced the first of a series of dances to be given in the ball room of the Masonic temple, East Lincoln way, the series to continue throughout the winter season. The first of these social events is scheduled for New Years' eve. Music will be furnished by Sayer's Syncopators of East Liverpool.

Real Prison Car In 'Limited Mail,' At The American

George Hill, director of "The Limited Mail," the Warner Bros. classic of the screen, which began a three-day engagement at the American theatre today, had to break the barriers of government restriction to get first hand information concerning the transportation of federal prisoners in order to screen the picture accurately.

One sequence in "The Limited Mail" calls for a prison car to show the action and reaction of prisoners about to serve sentence, and Mr. Hill was anxious to have that car under close observation. Special permission from Washington was obtained whereby Hill, his assistant, M. K. Wilson and Darryl Francis Zanuck, the scenarist, were passengers on a prison car that left Los Angeles for Fort Leavenworth.

With Eighteen Prisoners.

There were eighteen prisoners besides the picture people, who had placed themselves under the jurisdiction of the attending warden and had secured heavy bond. Six guards (three being a guard for every three men) the warden, a cook and his helpers completed the party.

The specially constructed car which at first glimpse looked like one of the old time tourist pullman coaches except for the barred windows and absence of lower berths, was bare except for several tables and chair kept snug against the wall. At one end was a stove, ice box and various things needed to prepare meals. Hence the chef held sway and cooked food three times a day. The car was sealed at both ends at the start of the journey and is never opened until the end of the trip except under government orders.

Reproduced in Picture.

The means and methods in which the men, both prisoners and guards, lived, was an interesting experience according to Hill. They joked and laughed together as if on the best of social standing, with no feeling of restraint. In fact, if it had not been for the stark reality of the prison car an outsider might have thought it a private picnic of some kind.

The historic mansion of Bentley Priory, near Edgeware, England, which contains 100 rooms, has been acquired by the Air Ministry as headquarters for administration purposes.

Tells Why He Can Now Eat Hearty

"A letter which I read in the paper about Carter's Little Liver Pills fitted my own case so closely that I could not help trying them and am very happy I did." So writes Mr. Frank J Trumbull of Jersey City, N J., whose letter goes on to say: "I had heard about Carter's Little Liver Pills for years but never knew they helped overcome poor appetite and sour stomach until I read about another man in the same plight who took Carter's with good results. I tried them and can honestly say that they freed me of nasty gas on stomach, so that I can now eat without getting bilious, and they improved my appetite fully 100%. You can rest assured that from now on I will boost Carter's Little Liver Pills whenever I can."

Here is the week's schedule:

MILLER BROS. LAND OPENER

Columbiana Passers Trim Lowellville Five.

COLUMBIANA, Dec. 28.—In their opening game, the Miller Bros., independent basketball team won 35 to 18 in a fast and rough encounter over the Lowellville A. C. The largest crowd of the basketball season witnessed two exciting and interesting games. Miller Bros., strengthened by the addition of Thomas, center of Coxsville high school last year, and Howe, a forward from Youngstown, have probably the fastest aggregation they have ever had. The veterans, Anderson, McMaster, Gaham and Hawkins are again with the team. While Hawkins was the scoring star, making seven baskets, Thomas was the all-around star of the game, ably assisted by strong guarding by McMaster and Anderson. Perry Kyser did well in the few minutes he played.

In the preliminary game the Columbiana High School girls were defeated by a team of E-High girls captained by "Shorty" Brungard, the score being 17-13. The Ex-Highs started off like a whirlwind, the first quarter ending 10-1, but their lack of condition showed and the High Schooi lassies gradually crept up, but their shooting was atrocious, and while their floor work was good they missed several times as many shots as the Alumni girls. Guard Orr of the High School team was absent, necessitating the playing of Capt. Gleckner at guard most of the game, which greatly weakened the scoring. The Ex-Highs were only able to muster five players, so Catherine Tidd, a High School freshman, helped them, and did very well. Detailed score:

Pro Golf Champ Plans Trip Around the World

Walter Hagen, professional golf champion, is going to make a golfing trip around the world next year. It will start with an invasion of the British Isles at the time of the British open and will include the French open and other European tournaments.

McGraw May Reinstate Suspended Slab Star

Graduates Round Up Strong Cage Outfit

DeBolt, Pusey, Smith, McConville and Liebschner Will Probably Carry Ex-High Colors With Other Stars in Reserve; Action Promised in Girls' Game.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR O. V. BOONE today announced definitely that the scheduled clash between Coach Lorah's high school five and the alumni, originally carded for Thursday night, New Year's eve, will be played, instead, on Wednesday night at the high school gymnasium.

The shift in dates was considered advisable by school authorities because of the several other attractions on the board for that particular night. And it is probable that there will also be a change in the starting time of the game, with the preliminary between high and ex-high girls, starting at 7 o'clock sharp.

It has never been difficult in years past to round up a strong alumni basketball squad and the coming contest will develop no exception to the rule.

A tentative lineup that the graduates are figuring on will place Don DeBolt, of W. & J., and Bob Pusey, of Franklin and Marshall academy, at the forwards; Firth Smith, of Denison, at center, and "Chuck" McConville, of Franklin and Marshall, and Dale Liebschner, star all around high school athlete of last year, at the guard posts.

There will be several others of practically equal ability, although the alumni have not yet completed their roster.

Colin "Slim" Bromby was considered for duty at the center post, along with Smith, but the Mount Union star is still suffering from the effects of an injury to one of his knees, sustained during the football season, and it is not likely that he'll get into action.

The girls' contest will vie for fans' interest, inasmuch as a majority of last year's crack sextet will probably be playing against Mrs. Mast's lassies. Nominees for places on the Ex-High squad include Gertrude Weaver, Dorothy Kannal, Dorothy Cooper, Martha Faulk, Irene McElravey and Leona McConville.

STRIBLINGS TO VISIT NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—W. L. (Young) Stribling, Georgia's contender for the light heavyweight title, was expected to arrive in town today, accompanied by his bride. The Striblings are on their honeymoon and left Atlanta for the north, following their marriage on Saturday. The boxer was expected to pay his respects to Tex Rickard today but whether the call would be of a business or social nature was not known.

Stribling met Paul Berlenbach, the present holder of the light heavyweight title, several years ago, the bout resulting in a draw decision after six rounds. The Georgia flash, however, has attained his majority in the meantime and can box at the championship limit of fifteen rounds in this state.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Ivan Poddubny, Russian Wrestler, hopes to take another step tonight toward a world's championship meeting with Joe Stecher, of Omaha, present holder of the title. He will meet Angello Taramaschi, of Italy, in a finish bout.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

BY NORMAN B. BROWN

The most earnest thoughts of baseball moguls and managers very often prove later to be nothing but wild chatter. It seems, however, as though Connie Mack's prediction anent the possibilities of Al Simmons being the big star of the 1926 campaign, has some foundation in fact.

Simmons had the unique distinction in 1925 of outhitting both Harry Heilmann, who won the league batting title, and Tris Speaker, runner up for the honor.

On percentage Simmons ended the season seven points below Heilmann and three points behind Speaker. But a closer scrutiny of the records reveals the fact that Mr. Simmons collected 28 more base hits than Heilmann, exceeded his total base mark by 66 bases, and scored 25 more runs.

He made 68 more hits than Speaker, 146 more total bases and scored 46 more runs.

A wide margin in both cases.

Also Mr. Simmons led both big leagues in collecting 253 base hits for a total of 392 bases.

A fair year's work for a man who was called a "gamble" when Mack paid $40,000 for him two years ago and theen proceeded to amaze the technicians by socking the ball from the unorthodox position of having his foot in the water bucket.

Rogers Hornsby, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, says he believes that 12 hours sleep is needed to keep a ball player fit. But none of this 12 hours is to be taken on the ball field.

Speaking of baseball records, the "nominal" record holders draw but little glory at the close of the yearly season but they may find a small crumb of comfort in their marks.

For instance, Chester Falik, St. Louis outfielder who started out once to be a pitcher, really led the American league in batting, if "nominal" figures are listed. He went to bat just eight times in the year and socked out five hits—all singles, incidentally—for a percentage of .625.

But it doesn't mean anything, except a certain amount of satisfaction to Chester himself.

The Philadelphia Athletics made the greatest number of hits in the American league in 1925, according to the official records. Which proves many things but mainly the fact that it takes more than base hits to win a pennant.

FIVE ELEVENS GO UNBEATEN

Dartmouth Best, With Alabama, Michigan Close Behind.

Five teams, Dartmouth, Alabama, Washington, Colgate and Tulane, and one man, Harold "Red" Grange, of Illinois, contributed to the general gaiety of the 1925 football season, the former because they survived the campaign undefeated, the latter because he exploited his ball-running ability to a point where it paid him hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Grange was the first collegian to leave the campus for the professional gridiron and make it pay him in big, serious money. The echo of the whistle in his final college game was hardly stilled when Grange joined the Chicago Bears and within a fortnight had won himself $100,000 in gate receipts and advertising gratuities and a movie contract alleged to be worth $300,000 for one picture.

Poor Record as "Pro."

And, in spite of the furore, quite a few reputable critics did not believe that Grange was entitled to a place on the first All-American team. He ran wild against Pennsylvania, but otherwise did little to distinguish himself. He did even less against the "pro" outfits, beyond establishing an endurance record by playing eight games in 12 days.

As a matter of fact, "Swede" Oberlander, of Dartmouth, was generally hailed as the greatest back of the year, with Ernie Nevers, of Stanford; Wilson, of Washington, Flournoy, of Tulane, and Pooley Hubert, of Alabama, receiving sporadic support for the honors.

Critics were equally divided as to the best football team of the season. Dartmouth and Alabama were the only outfits to finish the season without a defeat or tie and the general tendency was to rate Dartmouth at the top. However, there were those who held forth for Michigan, which only had three points scored against it. These, however, were enough to give Northwestern a 3-to-2 decision and deprive the Wolverine of his rightful position.

HOCKEY GAMES AT MADISON SQUARE

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Collegiate hockey with an international flourish will be inaugurated at Madison Square Garden today when Montreal will meet Boston college in the first of a series of four matches. Princeton will play the second match tonight against the Royal Military college, of Canada. For the concluding games tomorrow, the teams will reverse the order, Boston college meeting the Royal Military college in the afternoon and Princeton playing Montreal in the evening.

Net Champ Plans Trip

NEW YORK, Dec. 28. — Miss Helen Wills, merican net champion, will sail on Jan. 15 for the Riviera, where she is expected to play in all the leading tournaments during her stay. World tennis followers are anxiously awaiting the occasion which will bring her face to face with Suzanne Lenglen.

BRITISH AND FRENCH GOLF KINGS TO MEET JONES AND GUNN IN BIG TILT

By Norman E. Brown.

As most golf addicts recall, one of the most exciting moments in the links game of the long departed summer of 1925 was the battle waged by Bobby Jones, 1924 king, and Watts Gunn, his own neighbor, for the amateur newcomer in tournament play, extended Jones to the limit in a day's golf that was bad for the weakhearted.

Europe, about the same time, was thrilled with the close finish in the French open championship tourney. Arnaud Massey, French star, and Arthur Compston, British amateur champion, faced each other in the final of the French tourney and were tied when the final hole had been played. Massey won the honor in the play-off that was necessary to decide it.

It is of unusual interest, therefore, that Jones and Gunn, playing together this time, are scheduled to face Compston and Massey, as a team, in an exhibition match at St. Augustine, Fla., Jan. 3.

This will be the first big golf match of the baby year of 1926. It promises to produce a brand of golf that will be something for the leading lights to shoot at the rest of the year.

Jones is without a doubt the greatest tournament player in the game today. Gunn, a pupil of Jones, gave evidence in the national open that he will make a bid for major honors within the next two or three seasons.

Compston heads the European golfers for 1925, at least. He won the British amateur, as chronicled, finished a stroke or two behind Long Jim Barnes American and victor, in the British open, and then played his way into the final of the French open.

In addition to these achievements he defeated Abe Mitchell, another well known British star familiar to American golfers, on two occasions and also won two $5,000 tournaments.

Massey, in turning back the Britton in the French open, showed his class as a tournament golfer. After playing superb golf through the tourney he nosed out Compton in the play-off by one stroke.

The Europeans, making their first appearance here, bring plenty of experience. Compston is 32, and has been playing since his youth, Massey is near 40. He won the British open title back in 1907.

Jones is twenty-three and Gunn but 19. Bobby, however, has been playing tournament golf for something like seven or eight years.

Colleges Will Launch Campaign Against Professional Football

First Step to be Taken Today at Coaches' Meeting, Which, Critics Say, Won't Amount to Anything.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—In the rather superfluous hope that the Grange incident never will be repeated, intercollegiate football will spend the next 60 hours declaring itself on the subject of professionalism and attempting to draft punitive measures against money players and the game that supports them. The first step will be taken today at the annual meeting of the American Football Coaches' association at the Hotel Pennsylvania. It won't amount to anything.

Subsequently, the National Collegiate Athletic association which really can stimulate action, will take up the subject at its annual meeting on Wednesday and a debate has been scheduled with Major L. Griffith, of the western conference, advocating his program of chastisement for the pro. Just for the sake of argument, so to speak, Professor Folsom, of the University of Colorado, is down on the books to take the negative side.

However, when the last voice is stilled, it will remain for the pros themselves to alter conditions, if at all. Tim Mara, one of the owners of the New York Giant franchise, has advocated that the professional league decline to do business with any college player until his class has graduated.

Coaches Offer Suggestions.

Like breathing and wife beating, it seems to be something that a man has to do for himself. The pros can change conditions. The colleges merely can pass resolutions and issue threats of reprisals.

The coaches, being a type of professional and having no legislative standing, can only offer suggestions. These are listened to with bland tolerance by the association, which then proceeds to go ahead and do what is pleases.

However, some interesting conversation may be expected today. The president of the coaches' association is Bob Zuppke, of Illinois, and it is known that he feels very bitterly over the decision of Red Grange, his self-made star, to go over to professional football without completing his college course. He and the other coaches declare they are determined that it shall not happen again. They probably have exercised themselves unduly.

There is not likely to be another Grange for 20 years. Advertised beyond all reason, he enjoyed a complex for making himself sensational and, in consequencee, his box office value was too good to keep until the following fall. When the excitement dies down, professional football will return to normal. So will professional salaries, which Grange unwittingly inflated all along the line.

When that happens, the colleges can forget the incident. Collegiate football occupies one niche. Professional football another. And there seems to be room at the box office for both.

PUTS LAZERRE AT PIVOT JOB

Huggins to Use Coast Star at Second in 1926.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Tony Lazerre, Pacific coast slugger, will cavort at second base for the Yankees next season—if he cavorts at all.

That's the official communicado from Miller Huggins.

And it may mean much or nothing.

No infielder in years has come up to the majors with quite so much ballyhoo as has accompanied Lazerre on the big jump. Coast league experts pronounce him a fielding marvel. His batting average speaks for itself. And, according to the lads who know, he has a whole head full of baseball intelligence.

Which may run for mayor—or for Sweeney.

For grabbing that second base job on the Yankees next year will be no lead pipe cinch. Aaron Ward has been more cussed than discussed in the past year, But Wardie is still a young man, and capable of playing high grade ball. Not so many seasons ago he was looked upon as the best keystoner in the league.

Ward on Market.

Huggins has announced that Wardie is on the market. But he hasn't been traded yet. And if he is traded some veteran infielder of recognized ability will replace him in Yankee uniform.

Overcoming Wardie or his veteran successor will be Mr. Lazerre's first hurdle on the road to fame.

Following which accomplishment he will find the bow-legged figure of little Mike Gazella standing between him and the ultimate goal. Gazella was up with the Yankees a few seasons ago—and game promise of big things. But he couldn't quite make the grade and was sent back to the minors. Last season he played with Atlanta and burned up the league. Apparently he has arrived.

If Mr. Huggins says Lazerre will start at second base the chances are the advertised Tony will do just that thing. But he'll have to show something more than a clipping book of newspaper stories to hold the job.

Atlantations Get Call.

No less than five former members of the Atlanta club will cavort in Yankee uniforms this spring, unless they are traded meantime.

Of the lot, quite the likeliest looking candidate seems to be "Nick" Cullop, the man who chased all the alligators out of St. Petersburg. Nick can hit the apple—and is a pretty fair fielder into the bargain.

Breaking into the Yankee outfield will be a man sized job and Nick may not make it—but it's a dead certain cinch that a half dozen other clubs will be waiting around to grab him before he has a chance to dirty his uniform in the baseball ash can.

START NATIONAL INDOOR NET PLAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—With nearly one hundred entries, the National Junior Indoor championship in tennis singles will get under way today at a local armory, the feature match bringing together Malcolm Hill, of Waban, Mass., and Julius Seligson, one of the best of the local field. Hill is the playing-through champion, but is expected to encounter stubborn opposition from Seligson.

Other feature players include H. B. Wells, of Harvard; Robert Kaufman, of Yale, and Donald Strachan, of Philadelphia. The first round of the boys' championship has been put forward until tomorrow.

Masseur Is "Strong" Candidate For Mayor's Job In Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 28.—The strongest candidate for mayor of Youngstown may not win.

"Bathhouse" Barnes, famous masseur, is running for mayor of this city. He claims to be the strongest candidate who ever ran for office in the world. He can:

Pull a great weight with an iron comb fastened in his hair.

Lift 200 pounds with one hand and raise it a full arm's length above his head.

Bend a railroad spike with his bare hands.

Lift a man above his head with one hand.

Barnes says he will be "boss" of city hall. He claims he will be "no man's shadow." Every member of the police force will be put through his system of strenuous setting-up exercises every day by him. Firemen will have to learn to do his tricks to hold their jobs. He'll show them how.

The masseur is the man who took care of "Al" Kish, the marathon dancer who won the world's championship here when he danced a week without stopping. He was the only dancer who danced continuously with a partner.

Barnes has famous steel men, bankers, circus performers and athletes among his patrons.

For many years he gave physical culture demonstrations and lectured on health.

Now, he avers, he is out to finish the job started by the eccentric and wealthy George L. Oles, who was elected mayor of Youngstown four years ago, gave his salary to charity and resigned due to ill health and because he was "tired fighting off politicians."

RAW MATERIAL WASTED IN U. S., SAYS GERMAN

Paul Loebe, President of Reichstag, Gives His Views.

TOURED AMERICA

Capitalistic Civilization is Growing Here, he Writes.

BERLIN, Dec. 28.—"Europe's mission has been taken over by America. The United States of America is steadily and persistently dislodging Europe as the technical and economic pioneer of the world and a capitalistic civilization of gigantic dimensions is not opposed by an efficient political labor movement."

With these words, Paul Loebe, president of the German Reichstag, in an article of the Vorwaerts, summarizes his impressions gained during a visit to the United States as a delegate to the Interparliamentary Union.

Calls U. S. Wasteful.

Dwelling on the "amazing" activity in House building, road construction and development of transport systems, describing the Ford works as "putting out motor cars like grasshopper swarms," Loebe holds that the United States wastes its raw materials. "It still looks as if the enormous natural resources were inexhaustible. The land is in firm hands, we were told, but we rode through districts for miles and miles, which no hand seems to have touched, to say nothing of the swamps of New Jersey, Virginia, and the deserts of Ontario.

"Over there in the west, we were we were told by Chicagoans, who look down a bit on the easterner as influenced by European culture, over there New America grows up, where the land is more fertile and the climate more favorable.

"Technique, organization, maximum efficiency and success is everything. The standard of life of our American colleagues is undoubtedly higher. The bulk of the masses can afford to dress better and take better and more food than our workers.

"But beyond that?—With grammophone, radio and films the American worker's claim to life is exhausted. The rest belongs to the manager, proprietor, trust or banking magnate. Down in the ground floor a butcher kills pigs by the thousands, soaked with blood all over, and upstairs, in the fifteenth floor the monarch of the factory occupies his throne, a gentleman with distinguished manners and well-cultivated hands, who draws millions from the gruesome work of his employee.

"And all this is poured over with a strange mixture of piety, placing a Bible on the bedroom table of every hotel guest, opening every parliamentary session with a prayer, a piety, however, which is symbolized by the fact that four office buildings of about 200 metre height look down with pity upon a church tower of some 70 metres.

Calls Labor Weak.

"In this mammonite atmosphere labor movement, contrary to the assertions of clerical congregations, is, politically speaking, only a very light counterweight opposite Almighty capital. The world war and discord shattered the beginning of a political labor movement. Some time ago Socialists occupied seven amongst 42 aldermen seats in New York city, today they have none. The same goes with all other big cities. Socialist papers fight a laborious, hopeless battle against the big capitalistic papers. Election meetings of our American comrades, which we attended, revealed that the present status of the American Labor Movement is not much better than ours.

"What is the reason for this weakness?—The active part of the German and British labor in the United States takes all its hopes on reaching its aims by individual activity. It has, therefore, no interest in class war. Success of some individuals of lower classes, singled out by fate, intoxicates the masses. The influx of working masses incapable of organizing themselves, continues. Negroes, Chinamen, Greeks, Italians and other Balkan natives form a large percentage of American labor.

"Europe's mission has been taken over by America. I forecast that the Social powers, still latent, may one day develop as eruptively as business today."

This country is big, prosperous, and its big men in business are learning to deal with big money. It seemed gigantic when Uncle Sam undertook the Panama canal, that might cost three hundred million dollars. Such a sum inspired awe. Now it is the small change of really big business.

Any number of concerns would handle a Panama contract.

Standard Oil, in California, absorbs Pacific Oil. The latter casually announces distribution of one hundred millions or so of securities to its stockholders. And the whole thing amounts to "only five hundred millions, maybe, a little more or less." That's one day's item, and soon forgotten.

One it was whispered that Standard Oil was a billion-dollar octopus, and fiercely it was chopped into many teeny-weeny pieces. "Lie there," said Uncle Sam.

Each little piece grew into an octopus on its own account, and now each one talks hundreds of millions only.

Our octopuses are doing better.

Tennessee moonshiners produce a brand of "whisky" that would have prevented the evolution discussion had that whisky appeared earlier. It would have killed off all the higher apes before they had a chance to become men.

Lye, poison ivy and tobacco juice are included in this whisky, cheaper than corn whisky, more quickly made, with a real bite.

What effect will it have on Uncle Sam, if Russia equals him as a gold owner? It wouldn't be hard for our best minds to resist the persuasive powers of so much gold.

And what effect will the new yellow treasure have on Russia and her rulers? Will they become more conservative as they become rich, and join the world chorus of governing high finance? Probably.

CITY SUFFERS AS COLD WAVE SWEEPS ACROSS BUCKEYE STATE

Chicago, New York and New England Hard Hit.

RIVER IS FROZEN

Frigid Spell Will Reach Its Peak Tonight.

With at least 25 dead, including three in Ohio, East Liverpool today is suffering from the cold wave which has gripped the east, west and New England.

No deaths were reported here, but due directly or indirectly to zero weather, 13 are dead in Chicago, four in New York, two in Cleveland, one in Cincinnati, three in Baltimore and two in Detroit.

Damage Through Fire.

Damage through fire had reached more than $1,500,000 in the last 24 hours.

Hundreds of fires, caused mostly by overheating, kept the fire departments in many cities working feverishly. Chicago's loss so far from blazes is estimated at $1,000,000, while big fires have been reported from Akron, O.; Wheeling, W. Va.; Terre Haute, Ind.; Williston, S. D.; Butte, Mont., and other points.

Three alarms were answered in East Liverpool, but the damage in each instance was slight.

Ban Gas for Pottery Kilns.

The thermometer readings here this morning seven degrees above the zero mark while Sunday morning the average was about five degrees above. Some thermometers registered zero and below zero Sunday but the larger and more reliable instruments read four and five degrees above.

Although demands for gas and coal were heavy today, there was little suffering from the frigid temperature for those who remained indoors. The Manufacturers' Light & Heat company banned the use of gas in firing pottery kilns. Coal dealers said that all orders are being filled as soon as they are received.

Due to ice in the Ohio river all navigation is expected to be suspended today. The Carnegie Steel company's tow boat Askard, with a tow of empty barges, en route from Mingo to Pittsburgh, passed here this morning, but this probably will be the last boat to attempt to get through the ice. The packets Senator Cordell, Liberty and Betsy Ann are reported to be tied up in Pittsburgh, waiting for the ice, which is now three inches thick, to go out. The river was frozen over Saturday night.

PEACE LOOMS IN ANTHRACITE COAL TIE-UP OF 158,000 MEN

Settlement This Week of Bitter Strike is Predicted.

PARLEY CALLED

Miners and Operators Meet Tomorrow in New York.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Settlement this week of the bitter, long drawn out strike of 158,000 anthracite coal miners was predicted by informed observers today on the eve of the joint conference of operators and miners.

Union leaders and representatives of the operators will face each other across the conference table in this city tomorrow, bitterly hostile at the start. But, observers predict, after the first flurry of resentment and the usual harsh clash of words the conferees will get down to business and before the week is ended reach an agreement which will send the men, who have been on strike since September 1, "back to the mines."

Pressure to end the most calamitous suspension in the history of anthracite coal mining has been growing hourly. This pressure has come largely from the anthracite coal region of Pennsylvania, hard hit in a business way by the strike, and has been brought to bear upon operators as well as union leaders.

Highlights of Proposals.

The operators and miners will go into the conference in a belligerent frame of mind. Representatives of the operators will openly scoff at the Pinchot peace plan, accepted by the miners as a basis of negotiations, while the miners are expected to indicate their displeasure at the action of the operators in putting out advertisements in newspapers appearing in the coal regions Sunday, announcing that the men could go back to work at once at their old pay pending the outcome of the negotiations beginning tomorrow.

Union leaders saw in this offer of the operators an attempt to "break the morale" of the men.

The hightlights of the proposals to be made by both sides tomorrow are expected to be as follows:

1—The operators will demand immediate resumption of mining pending the negotiation of a new contract.

2—They will insist on arbitration of all points in dispute not settled by joint negotiations.

3—They will repect the peace plan

SALEM SCHOOL GIRL, 14, ELOPES WITH MECHANIC

Steps are Taken to Annul Yuletide Marriage.

COUPLE ARRESTED

Wedding Performed by Allegheny County Justice.

Steps to annul the marriage of their daughter, Gertrude, 14-year old Salem high school student to Edwin Flavell, 22, mechanic, who eloped to Pittsburgh Christmas eve, are being planned by Mr. and Mrs. John Lottman, Salem, parents of the bride, today.

The bride and her husband were arrested Saturday at the home of Flavell's sister, 820 Wylie avenue, Pittsburgh, three hours after they were married by an Allegheny county justice of the peace. The girl told Magistrate Charles W. Houston, in morals court, Sunday, that she and Flavell were met by a man at the city-county building, Pittsburgh, Saturday morning, who advised them that they would not be able to procure a marriage license as the bride-elect "looked too young."

The stranger suggested that they go to a justice of the peace who would obtain the marriage papers for them. The justice, it is claimed, did not ask the girl her age but directed the inquiry at Flavell. He replied in the affirmative, it is alleged, and the marriage was performed. The girl said that she had not given her consent to the marriage.

Parents of the girl asked Pittsburgh police to arrest the couple. John Lottman, father of the girl, went to Pittsburgh yesterday and asked that he be allowed to take the girl back to her home, promising that steps will be taken to annul the marriage. The girl is a junior in high school and her pa-

THREE FURNISH BOND AS WELLSVILLE PROBE IS GIVEN NEW TWIST

Lester Rowley, Raymond Carroll, William McKinnon and Anthony Dash Bound Over to Grand Jury After Pleading Not Guilty at Preliminary Hearing Before Mayor Blackburn.

McKINNON, UNABLE TO GIVE $3,000 BAIL, IS COMMITTED TO JAIL CELL

Rowley's Bond Fixed at $5,000 After Chief of Police Fultz, Upon Advice of Prosecutor Brookes, Reconsiders Substitution of Robbery Charges for Second Degree Murder Counts.

Pleading not guilty to charges of second degree murder following the death of Charles Devie, of Pittsburgh, Raymond Carroll, Lester Rowley and William McKinnon, of East Liverpool, and Anthony Dash, of Wellsville, were bound over to the grand jury under bonds of from $3,000 to $5,000 at a hearing Saturday afternoon before Mayor Frank C. Blackburn in Wellsville.

Attorney W. A. O'Grady, of Wellsville, represented the four youths accused in the case while Prosecuting Attorney Robert Brookes represented the state.

Rowley's bond was fived at $5,000, while the other three youths were asked to furnish $3,000 each.

Rowley, Dash and Carroll were released Saturday night after friends and relatives of the trio had obtained their bonds. McKinnon was still in jail this morning.

As a result of the new turn in the case, which has been under investigation since Dec. 31, when Devie's body was found in a vacant building at 1321 Main street, Wellsville, the grand jury will consider the murder charges at a session on January 11.

Devie's Body Buried.

Chief of Police John Fultz Saturday announced his intention of withdrawing the murder charges originally filed against the young men, because of the fact that an examination of Devie's stomach by a Pittsburgh physician, to determine to what extent alcoholism figured in the man's death, was fruitless. He had planned to have the quartet answer charges of robbery.

But Saturday afternoon, prior to the hearing, he reverted to the murder count following a conference with Prosecutor R. M. Brookes, who cited section 6212-14, of the general code, as basis for the charge.

While the hearing here was under way, funeral services were being held for Devie at Flannery's morgue, Grant street, Pittsburgh. Burial was made in Pittsburgh.

The Central fire department was and Washington street, at 12:30 called to the Moose temple, Fourth o'clock this morning to extinguish a blaze, which broke out among Christmas decorations on the third floor of the building. A passerby discovered the fire and sent in the alarm.

Fire Chief Bryan was called to the home of William Robinson, 859 Ohio avenue, by a chimney fire this morning. There was no damage.

This country is big, prosperous, and its big men in business are learning to deal with big money. It seemed gigantic when Uncle Sam undertook the Panama canal, that might cost three hundred million dollars. Such a sum inspired awe. Now it is the small change of really big business.

Any number of concerns would handle a Panama contract.

Standard Oil, in California, absorbs Pacific Oil. The latter casually announces distribution of one hundred millions or so of securities to its stockholders. And the whole thing amounts to "only five hundred millions, maybe, a little more or less." That's one day's item, and soon forgotten.

Each little piece grew into an octopus on its own account, and now each one talks hundreds of millions only.

THREE FURNISH BOND AS WELLSVILLE PROBE IS GIVEN NEW TWIST

Lester Rowley, Raymond Carroll, William McKinnon and Anthony Dash Bound Over to Grand Jury After Pleading Not Guilty at Preliminary Hearing Before Mayor Blackburn.

McKINNON, UNABLE TO GIVE $3,000 BAIL, IS COMMITTED TO JAIL CELL

Rowley's Bond Fixed at $5,000 After Chief of Police Fultz, Upon Advice of Prosecutor Brookes, Reconsiders Substitution of Robbery Charges for Second Degree Murder Counts.

Pleading not guilty to charges of second degree murder following the death of Charles Devie, of Pittsburgh, Raymond Carroll, Lester Rowley and William McKinnon, of East Liverpool, and Anthony Dash, of Wellsville, were bound over to the grand jury under bonds of from $3,000 to $5,000 at a hearing Saturday afternoon before Mayor Frank C. Blackburn in Wellsville.

Attorney W. A. O'Grady, of Wellsville, represented the four youths accused in the case while Prosecuting Attorney Robert Brookes represented the state.

Rowley's bond was fixed at $5,000, while the other three youths were asked to furnish $3,000 each.

Rowley, Dash and Carroll were released Saturday night after friends and relatives of the trio had obtained their bonds. McKinnon was still in jail this morning.

As a result of the new turn in the case, which has been under investigation since Dec. 31, when Devie's body was found in a vacant building at 1321 Main street, Wellsville, the grand jury will consider the murder charges at a session on January 11.

Devie's Body Buried.

Chief of Police John Fultz Saturday announced his intention of withdrawing the murder charges originally filed against the young men, because of the fact that an examination of Devie's stomach by a Pittsburgh physician, to determine to what extent alcoholism figured in the man's death, was fruitless. He had planned to have the quartet answer charges of robbery.

But Saturday afternoon, prior to the hearing, he reverted to the murder count following a conference with Prosecutor R. M. Brookes, who cited section 6212-14, of the general code, as basis for the charge.

While the hearing here was under way, funeral services were being held for Devie at Flannery's morgue, Grant street, Pittsburgh. Burial was made in Pittsburgh.

The Central fire department was and Washington street, at 12:30 called to the Moose temple, Fourth o'clock this morning to extinguish a blaze, which broke out among Christmas decorations on the third floor of the building. A passerby discovered the fire and sent in the alarm.

Fire Chief Bryan was called to the home of William Robinson, 859 Ohio avenue, by a chimney fire this morning. There was no damage.

Charles Pomeroy, member of the Carnegie library board, notified the police Saturday evening that his automobile had been stole while parked in front of his residence in Bradshaw avenue.

About a half hour later the machine was found near the China works of the Knowles, Taylor & Knowles pottery. Police believe that the car started of its own accord, ran down the street about two blocks, hurtled the curb and crashed into a shed which covers gas valves. Drastic Dog Tax Law Will Become Operative January 1.

The new dog law passed at the last session of the legislature will become operative on New Year's day when the assessors begin listing property for 1926 taxes.

The law makes all dogs above the age of eight months personal property, and assessors at the time they are making to collect head tax of one dollar on each male dog and two dollars on each female dog found within his jurisdiction.

The assessor collecting the dog tax shall be allowed a commission of ten per cent upon all taxes collected by him and shall turn into the county treasurer ninety per cent of such taxes collected by him, which shall be credited to the found for the compensation of persons who have suffered loss or damage on account of the destruction, loss or injury by dogs or sheep, lamb or goat, and claims for such loss or damages shall be presented to an allowed, when satisfactorily proven to the county court.

The law also provides that any dog above the age of eight months may be listed and assessed as other personal property, if the owner so desires. And any dog so taxed and which is kept as the law requires shall be protected by the law. Any person who unlawfully kills any such dog shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and if the dog be of an assessed value of more than $20, "shall upon conviction be imprisoned in the county jail at hard labor for a period not in excess of twelve months or fined not in excess of $200, either or both, in the discretion of the court."

Moreover, the owner of such dog many recover damages for its wrongful death, but in no case "can a recovery be had in excess of the assessed value of the dog." Nor can there be any recovery of damages at all unless both the head tax and the property tax have been paid.

Authority is given to justices of the peace and notaries public, within their jurisdictions, to summon three taxpayers to assess the damages caused by a dog attacking sheep or kindred animals. After due investigation, they shall make a sworn statement of their findings and file the same with the county court. If the complaint is not sustained the complainant shall pay all cost; otherwise the damages and costs may be collected from the dog owner.

Any surplus funds not needed for the satisfaction of claims and payment of expenses shall be credited to the teachers' funds of the different magisterial and independent school district of the county in proportion to their population.

Toll From Alcoholic Poisoning

The investigation of the death of a Pittsburgh man, whose body was found in a vacant building in Wellsville, and in connection with which four youths, who are alleged to have been in his company, are under arrest, should drive home to southern Columbiana county people the danger of using concoctions sold under the name of liquor.

Coroner J. M. Van Fossan, following an inquest, ruled that the man died of "alcoholism." And this verdict was sustained by the belief of Wellsville authorities, who expressed the opinion that it was another case of poison liquor.

According to Chief of Police John W. Fultz, of Wellsville, one of the four youths arrested pending an investigation, confessed that he purchased liquor and gave it to the man a few hours before he died.

This case emphasizes the facts about liquor given the public the other day by a United States district attorney of New York. He said:

"During the last two years the United States chemist attached to my office has analyzed 50,000 samples of seized liquor of all kinds. More than 98 per cent of these samples reveal synthetic liquor made from denatured alcohol.

"The rye whisky is not rye whisky; the Scotch is not Scotch; the gin is not gin; the brandy is not brandy. Almost 99 per cent of the whole 50,000 samples had been manufactured right here in New York from denatured alcohol treated to remove as much of the poison as possible."

There were 511 deaths from alcoholic poisoning in New York City up to December 1. Liquor in other cities is of about the same standard of purity and salubrity.

And despite repeated warnings of physicians, prohibition enforcement officials and others, people continue to flirt with blindness, paralysis and death by drinking it.

The "Doctrine" of Fascism

William Bolitho, in a masterly study of Italian Fascism for the New York World, sweeps away some confusing myths about that remarkable phase of Italian history. Mussolini and his followers talk a great deal of philosophic bosh about their movement. This American observer finds the whole thing quite simple.

"In short," he concludes, "the whole baggage of Fascist theory, its nationalism, its royalism, its gospel of violence, its anti-parliamentarism and its denunciations of the liberty of the press, its hierarchy and its strange interpretations of Italian history, are not clauses in a social theory but sophisticated world-spinning around the incidents of an energetic and unscrupulous man's march to power.

"The lessons of Fascism to the world are not in its poor and presumptuous theorizing, but in the deductions we can draw from its existence, thus: That in our present economic system, an industrial conflict is likely to turn into a coup d'etat and that a modern state can be held up and exploited and kept quiet by a band of adventurers.

"Fascism is a social disease, a fever of the body politic, brought on by disorganized industry and general depression. There is no more a doctrine of Fascism than there is a doctrine of smallpox."

This is better understood now in America than it was a while ago.

The Cost of Books

Winston Churchill, famous American novelist, says he has written some books in the last 10 years, but not for publication. "Like a child building houses in the sand," he does it for his own amusement.

Mr. Churchill can afford to do this. He has made enough money on past successes to indulge such a whim. But he gives a reason for it that is not altogether childish. He doesn't write books for publication any more because he doesn't like the way publishers handle them. He says he is "fed up with the modern purveyor of books."

His chief objection to them seems to be the prices they charge for books. Today, says Mr. Churchill, books cost so much that they are beyond the reach of those who love them.

"A good book is to be cherished and kept and read and re-read. People who can't afford to pay $2 or $2.50 for a book must now get them out of libraries. Something is lost. They miss the association of good books and the pleasure of seeing them in the house as familiar as friends, and re-reading them occasionally."

Fortunately there are libraries to furnish books for those who can't buy them. In this respect America is far better provided for than foreign countries. But foreign countries don't need the libraries so much, because they sell books far cheaper than we do, and there are usually editions of good works within the reach of almost anyone.

What the American farmer wants is more cash for his crops. It's Europe that wants more credit. (Which, by the way, would give the A. F. more cash for his crops).

There seems to be much honest doubt this year as to whether Santa Claus uses a sleigh, motor truck, freight-plane or dirigible.

Tomboy Taylor— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Diary of a modern Pepys. Aroused by ringing of the telephone and it was Rudolph Valentino who usually arises at the first cock's crow and so to admire again the robe Roy Howard brought me from China.

Later for a brisk walk to Grant's Tomb and ate seven flap-jacks at an inn on upper Broadway and met Zoe Beckley and we talked of the passing of T. E. Niles, who was our managing editor on the Evening Mail.

Home and tried to read a book of poems but with no zest socver nor could I write a line so with my wife to a restaurant where they made us stand in line and I left in a foolish pet. So to bed.

Manhattan swims up from its deep well of sleep with a stimulating clatter. At dawn there is the clop of hoofs on asphalt. Horses seem to be used only in the early morning. Newspaper wagons hurl off their bundles at street corners. Mail trucks siren across town.

Night workers trudging home whistle cheerfully. The heartiest laughs in New York are in the early morning. Even around Times Square is the joyous bark of dogs welcoming another day. The redcaps making white marble spotless around Grand Central send songs echoing to the blue domed ceiling.

Shoe shiners are among earliest street merchants, pointing their accusing finger—a happy crew. The window washers too have a cheerio. Then there is a lull in the tempo. The blaseists stream to their jobs. They have a glumness. To them it is just another day.

Fat brokers lolling to work in limousines peer out upon the world with heavy-lidded indifference. The traffic snarl and the pedestrianic push work their spell. Nerves are taut. And by noon it is every man for himself.

Any New York doctor will tell you the prevailing ailment of the city is "nerves." Every phobia is expressed—those who fear crowds, high places, subway, elevated and even the friendly open spaces of the Central Park meadows.

Two very rich men are such confirmed hypochrondiacs that personal physicians accompany them to the theatre and other places of amusement. At home or the office they are constantly in touch with them. If they travel at home or abroad their medical advisers go along. To all outward appearances they are vigorous and healthy and one wonders how they would fare if they were too poor to wheedle their symptoms.

This is a story—told for a true one—that would almost click in a Broadway drama. Scene: Waffle shop near type turbaned in red bandana and Columbus Circle. Hefty black mammy wearing gingham apron in window turns waffles to a crisp brown. Man stands on sidewalk watching as though fascinated. She looks up. Recognition and rushes to sidewalk and hugs him with a "Lor' bless you, honey, it's yo' poah old mammy." The story is the young man came to work in New York after his college days. His parents a year ago suffered heavy financial losses. They had to dismiss all the servants and placed the mammy with friends in New York. She didn't like it and drifted to the waffle job.

Perhaps no one will believe this either, but I saw it. A tire fell from the back of a limousine bowling up Fifth avenue. It rolled among a group of ditch diggers at 47th street and one amazed red shirted worker was completely "rung" like the cane at a county fair. I waited for a quarter of an hour but nobody came as a claimant. Any second-hand store would give the worker a week's pay for it—and probably did.

HASKIN'S LETTER

Training Store Employees.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—A signal honor has recently been conferred upon an American woman by the French government. Through the Chamber of Commerce of Paris Miss Isabel Craig Bacon, special agent for Retail Selling, Federal board for Vocational Education, has been asked to spend two months in Paris assisting in the permanent organization of the Ecole Technique de Vente. This new technical school for salespeople opened for a four months' trial session in November.

In the formal request which M. Kempf, president of the Chambre de Commerce de Paris made to J. C. Wright, director of the Federal board for Vocational Education, he stated that they greatly desired the services of Miss Bacon at the end of this trial session so that she might assist them with their examinations and also with their plans for the permanent development of the school. The request of M. Kempf that Miss Bacon be granted leave in order to assist in this important work has been granted by the board and she is now making preparations for her trip.

Last spring Mlle. Louli Sanua was commissioned by the French government to make a survey of the commercial schools in the United States. This commission came through the Director of the Paris Chamber of Commerce, since that organization is charged with control of all commercial schools in Paris.

As a result of the survey it was decided to create in Paris a school similar to the Prince School of Education for Store Service which is a graduate school of Simmons college of Boston. The Prince school offers a one-year course preparing its students to train and to teach various groups of store workers, those employed and those entering the retail field. The students receive not only theoretical training but practical experience through the cooperation of a number of large departmena stores in Boston.

Each student spends one day a week in a departmena store gaining practical selling knowledge. During the Christmas rush the school suspends classes and the students work in the stores in executive capacities. They may serve as floor managers, assistants in adjustment office, supervisors of new sales-persons, managers of gift shops, or supervisors of juniors. And they are paid for this part of their training.

Originally for Saleswomen.

When the Prince school was first organized in 1905 training was given to saleswomen only. The work taken up included salesmanship, store system, textile, color and design, arithmetic, hygiene and English. All of these subjects weer taught in direct relation to the pupils' work as saleswomen. This was all with a view to increasing their efficiency and broadening their outlook.

The results of this course proved so satisfactory to all concerned that it was decided to establish a training course for educational directors who would be fitted to undertake the directing and teaching of workers within the stores themselves. This course is now the chief work of the school. Students who enter this school with a bachelor's degree from an accredited college, may be candidates for the degree of Master of Science from Simmons college upon satisfactory completion of the course.

Miss Bacon is a graduate of the Prince school, and this is perhaps one of the reasons she was called to the attention of Mlle. Sauna. However, her entire career has been one that admirably fits her for the work France is asking of her. Since 1913 she has devoted herself to educational work in retail stores and she is now one of the foremost authorities on the subject.

Her story is another evidence that women are now stepping right along with the men to success. While she was stil in college her father and brother died and she decided to go into business. She was at that time a professional choir and concert singer and she continued with this even after embarking upon a commercial career.

Employed in Ohio.

Miss Bacon was employed in one of the largest department stores in Ohio an assistant to the superintendent when the store management decided to send her to Boston to take a course at the Prince school. After she had completed this course she returned became educational director in the store. She remained in this capacity until 1915 when she was called to Boston as th hoaed of a newly created department of salesmanship in the public schools. The school officials desired someone who had had store experience, as well as theoretical training. Boston, Incidentally, was the city in the United States to offer in the public schools an organized training course to prepare young people for store work.

Considering Miss Bacon's experience, it was but natural when the Federal board for Vocational Education was organized that she should be asked to act as special agent for retail training. It is her duty to promote the establishment of training courses in department stores and the introduction of training courses in high schools, colleges and universities which will prepare young people for store work.

It is being realized that selling is a profession and therefore special training is not only desirable but necessary. The day is passing when a department store's sales force is largely composed of those whose lack of training makes it impossible for them to obtain employment any place else. Education and refinement are becoming as requisite to those employed as saleswomen in large stores as it is to

The investigation of the death of a Pittsburgh man, whose body was found in a vacant building in Wellsville, and in connection with which four youths, who are alleged to have been in his company, are under arrest, should drive home to southern Columbiana county people the danger of using concoctions sold under the name of liquor.

Coroner J. M. Van Fossan, following an inquest, ruled that the man died of "alcoholism." And this verdict was sustained by the belief of Wellsville authorities, who expressed the opinion that it was another case of poison liquor.

According to Chief of Police John W. Fultz, of Wellsville, one of the four youths arrested pending an investigation, confessed that he purchased liquor and gave it to the man a few hours before he died.

This case emphasizes the facts about liquor given the public the other day by a United States district attorney of New York. He said:

"During the last two years the United States chemist attached to my office has analyzed 50,000 samples of seized liquor of all kinds. More than 98 per cent of these samples reveal synthetic liquor made from denatured alcohol.

"The rye whisky is not rye whisky; the Scotch is not Scotch; the gin is not gin; the brandy is not brandy. Almost 99 per cent of the whole 50,000 samples had been manufactured right here in New York from denatured alcohol treated to remove as much of the poison as possible."

There were 511 deaths from alcoholic poisoning in New York City up to December 1. Liquor in other cities is of about the same standard of purity and salubrity.

And despite repeated warnings of physicians, prohibition enforcement officials and others, people continue to flirt with blindness, paralysis and death by drinking it.

The "Doctrine" of Fascism

William Bolitho, in a masterly study of Italian Fascism for the New York World, sweeps away some confusing myths about that remarkable phase of Italian history. Mussolini and his followers talk a great deal of philosophic bosh about their movement. This American observer finds the whole thing quite simple.

"In short," he concludes, "the whole baggage of Fascist theory, its nationalism, its royalism, its gospel of violence, its anti-parliamentarism and its denunciations of the liberty of the press, its hierarchy and its strange interpretations of Italian history, are not clauses in a social theory but sophisticated world-spinning around the incidents of an energetic and unscrupulous man's march to power.

"The lessons of Fascism to the world are not in its poor and presumptuous theorizing, but in the deductions we can draw from its existence, thus: That in our present economic system, an industrial conflict is likely to turn into a coup d'etat and that a modern state can be held up and exploited and kept quiet by a band of adventurers.

"Fascism is a social disease, a fever of the body politic, brought on by disorganized industry and general depression. There is no more a doctrine of Fascism than there is a doctrine of smallpox."

This is better understood now in America than it was a while ago.

The Cost of Books

Winston Churchill, famous American novelist, says he has written some books in the last 10 years, but not for publication. "Like a child building houses in the sand," he does it for his own amusement.

Mr. Churchill can afford to do this. He has made enough money on past successes to indulge such a whim. But he gives a reason for it that is not altogether childish. He doesn't write books for publication any more because he doesn't like the way publishers handle them. He says he is "fed up with the modern purveyor of books."

His chief objection to them seems to be the prices they charge for books. Today, says Mr. Churchill, books cost so much that they are beyond the reach of those who love them.

"A good book is to be cherished and kept and read and reread. People who can't afford to pay $2 or $2.50 for a book must now get them out of libraries. Something is lost. They miss the association of good books and the pleasure of seeing them in the house as familiar as friends, and re-reading them occasionally."

Fortunately there are libraries to furnish books for those who can't buy them. In this respect America is far better provided for than foreign countries. But foreign countries don't need the libraries so much, because they sell books far cheaper than we do, and there are usually editions of good works within the reach of almost anyone.

What the American farmer wants is more cash for his crops. It's Europe that wants more credit. (Which, by the way, would give the A. F. more cash for his crops).

There seems to be much honest doubt this year as to whether Santa Claus uses a sleigh, motor truck, freight-plane or dirigible.

Those 10,000,000-year-old dinosaur eggs brought from Asia probably taste very much like our own storage eggs.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Diary of a modern Pepys. Aroused by ringing of the telephone and it was Rudolph Valentino who usually arises at the first cock's crow and so to admire again the robe Roy Howard brought me from China.

Later for a brisk walk to Grant's Tomb and ate seven flap-jacks at an inn on upper Broadway and met Zoe Beckley and we talked of the passing of T. E. Niles, who was our managing editor on the Evening Mail.

Home and tried to read a book of poems but with no zest soever nor could I write a line so with my wife to a restaurant where they made us stand in line and I left in a foolish pet. So to bed.

Manhattan swims up from its deep well of sleep with a stimulating clatter. At dawn there is the clop of hoofs on asphalt. Horses seem to be used only in the early morning. Newspaper wagons hurl off their bundles at street corners. Mail trucks siren across town.

Night workers trudging home whistle cheerfully. The heartiest laughs in New York are in the early morning. Even around Times Square is the joyous bark of dogs welcoming another day. The redcaps making white marble spotless around Grand Central send songs echoing to the blue domed ceiling.

Shoe shiners are among earliest street merchants, pointing their accusing finger—a happy crew. The window washers too have a cheerio. Then there is a lull in the tempo. The blasé ists stream to their jobs. They have a glumness. To them it is just another day.

Fat brokers lolling to work in limousines peer out upon the world with heavy-lidded indifference. The traffic snarl and the pedestrianic push work their spell. Nerves are taut. And by noon it is every man for himself.

Any New York doctor will tell you the prevailing ailment of the city is "nerves." Every phobia is expressed—those who fear crowds, high places, subway, elevated and even the friendly open spaces of the Central Park meadows.

Two very rich men are such confirmed hypochrondiacs that personal physicians accompany them to the theatre and other places of amusement. At home or the office they are constantly in touch with them. If they travel at home or abroad their medical advisers go along. To all outward appearances they are vigorous and healthy and one wonders how they would fare if they were too poor to wheedle their symptoms.

This is a story—told for a true one—that would almost click in a Broadway drama. Scene: Waffle shop near type turbaned in red bandana and Columbus Circle. Hefty black mammy wearing gingham apron in window turns waffles to a crisp brown. Man stands on sidewalk watching as though fascinated. She looks up. NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—An optimistic outlook for the steel, railroad and automobile industries in 1926 is indicated in the public statements of the heads of United States Steel corporation, issued today. These corporations enjoyed unusual prosperity in 1925, and their present physical condition, together with the influx of a good volume of advance orders for next year, point to the continuance of large net earnings next year.

Thaw Frozen Water Pipes.

AKRON, Dec. 28.—Akron suffered an estimated loss of $150,000 in 12 fires Sunday and Sunday night, keeping every member of the fire department on the jump for 24 hours. The principal victim was the United States Stoneware company, whose plant was destroyed at a loss of $100,000. The blaze started while workmen were trying to thaw frozen water pipes.

The Case Produce company had a loss of $5,000, and the 10 other fires brought the total to $45,000 more, according to Chief John Mertz.

The cold made the fight against the flames a serious matter, and nozzle men had to be relieved every few minutes while the stoneware company blaze continued.

dently wish it known that he has nothing to do with their paper.

They may be wrong about that.

There is only one kind of brains, and Insull has plenty of the one kind. If he had a newspaper, and would take his mind off other things, he would be apt to make a great newspaper success. The fact that he is rich, and would fight for his readers not influenced by other "Insulls," would help. He would surely make more of a success than any committee.A A committee cannot run a newspaper, or nurse a baby.

A rich American girl thought she wanted a count, married him, had a baby, found she did not want him.

Count Salm, proud father(wants that baby. The small child plays with too many toys, while detectives watch that it may not be carried away by the loving father.

Many fathers, being primitive barbarians, will say "that father has rights." What would they say if a hen laid an egg and they saw the rooster walking off with it?

They would say: "Hold on! You didn't lay that egg."

Prof. Terman, assisted by psychologists has selected in California "the 1,000 most highly gifted children" of the state and now asks for $5,000,000 for educational facilities "to give genius a chance."

The professor and many others think too much is spent to educate "stupid and medicore" children that never will amount to much anyhow. The suggestion is to begin at the beginning and discourage the birth of so many children born of ordinary, inferior people.

How the 1,000 young geniuses are selected is not generally known. But it is probable that some of the California youthful geniuses have escaped attention.

Genius is often unrecognized even in adults until after death.

As for recognizing it in childhood, how would you have picked out Lincoln, Edison or Marconi among other children?

And as to discouraging the birth of children among "medicore" people, how will you recognize medicority? Dou you judge by the outside of the bungalow or the apparent financial prosperity? If so, you might have kept off the earth that same Lincoln, born in a shanty with no windows and in a bed resting on a dirt floor.

Better perhaps, let nature alone. She is the best judge of genius. And the best children are those brought into thet world by the strongest affection.

It is not the size of the automobile or bany account that tells.

To stabilize the French franc and protest French property owners, a great patriotic French loan is suggested. It would be a first mortgage for $40,000,000 on all French industries. No question as to the value of such security, for the industries to be mortgaged are easily worth ten nad twenty times the amount of the loan.

The difficulty might be in realizing on the mortgage. A mortgage on industry has for its real security human beings that run the industries. Owners sometimes forget that. And there can be no valid mortgage on human beings.

There is, however, in France, in the industry, intelligence and thrift of the French people a wealth 1,000 per cent greater than the total French debt. If politics could be swept aside with part of expenditures for war, it ought to be easy to make the French budget balance and restore French exchange.

4—They will fight for a five year agreement with provision for an anual readjustment of wages and working conditions in the light of changing economic conditions.

5—The miner will ask the operators to consider the Pinchot plan as a basis for negotiations.

6—The miners will express resentment over the publicity campaign of the operators to induce the miners to go back to work.

7—They will demand continuance of the "check off" system by which miners' dues to the union are automatically deducted from their pay.

8—The miners will accept a long contract, but insist on a scale of fixed wages.

Both Sides Silent

In advance of tomorrow's meeting, neither side would talk for publication. The preliminaries to the joint conference are expected to begin tonight when Major W. W. Inglis, the chairman, and his associates of the operators' scale committee will arrive here from the coal region. The representatives of the miners, headed by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, who spent Christmas at his home in Springfield, Ill., will arrive tomorrow morning.

Impetus to the belief that the strike will be ended within a week or so was given by the reported prediction of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that the strike would be settled within 10 days. Green is due in New York Wednesday and it is not improbable that he will advise Lewis and associates.

City Suffers

age when the river ice breaks. The wickets in the locks from Wheeling south were lowered Sunday and those from Wheeling to Pittsburgh are being dropped today.

Street car and railroad officials declared that all schedules are being maintained despite the cold weather.

Telephone communication to outside places was crippled by the cold wave. About 18 of the 35 toll lines leading out of the city were out of communication yesterday, but repair crews were on the job this morning. Indications were that service would be restored to normalcy by evening. Telephone officials declared that local lines were not affected by the frigid weather.

Many automobiles were frozen on the streets yesterday and had to be thawed out with hot water before their motors could be started. Others had to be towed to garages with frozen radiators and other mechanical trouble developing from freezing temperatures.

Columbus Coldest City.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 28. — Columbus was the coldest city in a radius of more than 200 miles early today, according to the government weather bureau here.

Following a low point of six degrees below zero Sunday morning, the mercury today fell to one degree below shortly before daybreak.

Cincinnati followed with zero weather temperature. Toledo was two above, Cleveland four, Pittsburgh, Pa., two above, Parkersburg, W. Va., two above, Fort Wayne, two above, Indianapolis, zero.

Reports from other Ohio sections will not be available until local stations make their weekly report. None are believed to have suffered much lower temperature than Columbus registered Sunday.

Tales of suffering and privation followed close on the reports of extreme cold weather over the week-end. Numerous fires were started by overheated stoves and furnaces.

No relief is in sight for at least two days, the weather bureau declared.

Three Dead in Ohio.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 28.—With the temperature ranging from zero to a few degrees above, Cleveland and northern Ohio was suffering today from the continued cold snap ushered in with the Christmas holiday. More than 400 men were employed yesterday cleaning the heavy snowfall from the main streets, and 200 additional continued the work throughout the night.

Two deaths were attributed indirectly to the cold weather here. John Peterson, 56, died on a street car of heart disease, induced by exhaustion, while John Seeley, 33, truck driver, a victim of pneumonia, died in a police ambulance as he was being taken to a hospital.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 28.—Winter hit Cincinnati a stunning blow today, sending the mercury down to almost five degrees below zero, the lowest temperature of the season. It was indirectly responsible for one death, two accidents and nearly 100 fires in Cincinnati, Covington and Newport, and freezing of the Ohio river and ice jams. The fires caused a total damage of about $33,000.

The Ohio river was clogged with ice floes this morning. River traffic was virtually at a standstill, while Licking river is covered with ice over an inch thick, and employes of the several coal companies that operate on the river are at work breaking the ice around the coal barges.

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 28.—Thirteen are dead from cold and exposure, more than 200 fires had been fought in the 24 hours ending at 6 a. m. today and hundreds are suffering in a cold wave which continued this morning without promise of relief for another 24 hours.

DEATH ROLL

William Sexton.

William Sexton, four year old son of Mrs. Ethel Brand, of Klondyke, died yesterday morning at the family residence following a brief illness of blood poisoning.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 at the family residence. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

The death list was the greatest in Chicago and its environs in years.

The lowest official temperature today was three below, a rise of five degrees since Sunday morning. Unofficial reports, however, ranged from 13 to 22 below in Chicago suburbs.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Fumes escaping from a gas heater, which had been left burning all night because of the terrific cold, killed a father and son and overcame a woman in an apartment at No. 52 State street early today. The dead:

James Watson, 40.
Leopold Watson, his son, 18.
Catherine Johnson, 29, was overcome but was revived.

Moderating in East.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The East, in the frigid grip of the coldest weather of the season, today was experiencing slightly moderating temperatures but the mercury still hovered close to 10 above zero. It dropped as low as seven above in New York.

Three dead in New York and vicinity was the toll resulting from the cold wave. Many suffered from exposure. Several deaths directly or indirectly due to the cold, were reported in other eastern cities.

Continued cold northwest winds was the forecast for this part of the country.

The coldest temperature in the East was recorded at Tupper Lake, N. Y.—28 degrees below zero. Below zero wether prevailed throughout New England.

Stormy conditions prevailed along the Atlantic seaboard. Radio reports told of trans-Atlantic liners, enroute to New York, battering gales and heavy seas.

In New York City, thousands of homeless sought food and shelter in Missions and lodging houses.

New England's Death Toll

BOSTON, Dec. 28.—Leaving in its wake a death toll of three, with several others in hospitals, the cold wave that held New England in its grasp was broken today.

A slowly rising temperature was discounted somewhat, however, by a strong northwest wind.

New England's cold wave death list follows:

EDWIN C. DOLLIVER, 79, wholesale grocer, died in a taxicab here, death being superinduced by cold.

PATRICK McSWEENEY, 65, dropped dead from exposure in a street in Worcester.

Mrs. Mary Coughlin, 48, died from effects of cold in Providence, R. I.

South Is Shivering.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 28. — Three deaths marked the toll today of Baltimore's near-zero weather. Forty-three fires in the last 24 hours established a new record here.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 28.—The south shivered today in the grip of the coldest wave of the year, with the mercury ranging from freezing in the extreme South to zero and below.

Records of years' standing were shattered as the thermometer dropped.

Relief Is Promised.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Some relief from the severe cold wave that has gripped the country from the Rocky mountains to the Atlantic was promised today by the United States weather bureau. Wintry weather also has extended as far south as Alabama.

The cold spell will reach its peak tonight, and probably will be followed by rising temperatures generally throughout the east and middle west, according to the bureau.

Washington suffered its coldest weather in years. The temperature dropped to 12 degrees above zero.

Schooner Destroyed by Fire

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 28.—The last six-masted schooner on the Atlantic coast, the Edward J. Lawrence, was destroyed by fire as she lay at anchor.

The growing popularity of silk, rayon, and lisle hosiery in South Africa accounts largely for the increasing sales of American hosiery.

The rapid economic recovery of France and Italy is due largely to the installation of up-to-date machinery.

To End Severe Cough Quickly, Try This

For real results, this old home-made remedy beats them all. Easily prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare, and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

SOVIET LAUDS COL. MITCHELL IN AIR PROBE

"Reds" See American Press Back of Aviator.

ANALYZE CASE

Charge U. S. Seeks to Lead in Aerial Affairs.

MOSCOW—Colonel "Billy" Mitchell's valiant battle for his belief in a re-organization of America's air service has found an attentive audience and an echo in the Soviet union. Communist comments are complimentary to the colonel for his courageous candor, and they prophesy that because the American press is with him, he will carry his point against all official opposition.

But, declare the Soviet critics, the whole aviation inquiry in America proves that the United States is losing its trust in geographical isolation, and that the talked-of plan for a second disarmament conference in Washington will accomplish nothing except possibly a sort of pact against the Soviet union.

Says U. S. Seeks Power

Pravada, the official organ of the Communist party, makes itself the spokesman for the Soviet viewpoint, and analyzing Mitchell's published statements, declares that they mean he wants America to become "boss of the world's air." And, the newspaper continues, the fact that the American press supports him means that America itself wants the same thing.

"The United States wants disarmament for Europe alone. The debtors must pay, and should not allow themselves the luxury of armaments.

"However, there is one factor which unites America with Europe, and that is their mutual hostility to the Soviet union. In Locarno a picture was painted to show that the only obstacle now to European peace was the Soviet union. Now comes reports from Washington that the Soviet union 'who does not want to disarm' has already been brought into the discussion over the coming disarmament conference."

This makes it timely, the newspaper declares, to refute America's claim to pacific inclinations. The only reason why the United States ever thought of disarming, says the communist organ, is because America knows she could arm herself quicker in an emergency than any other country, but this only proves, according to the Bolsehviks, that America wants disarmament for any other but pacific reasons.

"And what about armaments in America since the first disarmament conference?" asks Pravada. "The construction of the airplane carriers 'Lexington' and 'Saratoga' at an approximate cost of $100,000,000 looks like disarmament! The expenditure of nearly $7,000,000,000 on the navy and of more than $2,000,000,000 on the air fleet looks like disarmament!

Forecasts Big Force

"And the expenditures for military aviation will increase since Mitchell's incitement of a regular aviation bacchanalia. He wants to increase the air fleet to 4,800 planes. He insists on the development of civil aviation for the benefit of military aviation. He demands the government should co-operate with Ford in mass production of airplanes.

"These facts, together with Morgan's interest in aviation and dirigible transport, and the establishment of the National Air Transport company with a capital of $10,000,000, all bear witness to America's ambition."

AL G. FIELDS SHOW COMING

Great Cast Will Appear in Edition of Minstrels.

With a greater cast than ever before assembled in a minstrel show, the 39th Annual Edition of the Al G. Field Minstrels will open an engagement at the Ceramic theatre soon. Old time minstrelsy will predominate in this season's production, but there will be plenty of spice, pep and comedy to afford a solid evenings entertainment.

Bert Swor, called the premier blackface comedian of America, has returned to the cast of the Field Minstrels after several years' absence, and every lover of minstrelsy and song and comedy will be glad to welcome him back. Celebrating his return, he will present an entirely new brand of humor, in Bert's own style.

And Jack Richards and Billy Church—it seems America will never tire of hearing these two Columbus boys sing together, or separately—just so they sing. They have gained a nation-wide reputation, and have made many songs famous.

The first part scene of the show is laid in the South, at the time of the Civil war. The prologue depicts the cotton-picking scene, where all the younger generation of the negroes are pictured at work in a cotton field. Old Mammy and Uncle Remus complete the picture and the air of "Dixie" is predominant. Other scenes are laid on the lawn of an old Southern Colonial mansion, and the costuming is especially elaborate for these scenes.

Many Killed in Wreck.

MADRID, Dec. 28.—Many persons were reported to have been killed when an express train bound for Cartagena plunged down an embankment near Muricia today.

Relief trains have been dispatched to the scene.

Steel, Railroad And Auto Chiefs Predict Good Year

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—An optimistic outlook for the steel, railroad and automobile industries in 1926 is indicated in the public statements of the heads of United States Steel corporation, issued today. These corporations enjoyed unusual prosperity in 1925, and their present physical condition, together with the influx of a good volume of advance orders for next year, point to the continuance of large net earnings next year.

AKRON, Dec. 28.—Akron suffered an estimated loss of $150,000 in 12 fires Sunday and Sunday night, keeping every member of the fire department on the jump for 24 hours. The principal victim was the United States Stoneware company, whose plant was destroyed at a loss of $100,000. The blaze started while workmen were trying to thaw frozen water pipes.

The Case Produce company had a loss of $5,000, and the 10 other fires brought the total to $45,000 more, according to Chief John Mertz.

The cold made the fight against the flames a serious matter, and nozzle men had to be relieved every few minutes while the stoneware company blaze continued.

City Suffers

age when the river ice breaks. The wickets in the locks from Wheeling south were lowered Sunday and those from Wheeling to Pittsburgh are being dropped today.

Street car and railroad officials declared that all schedules are being maintained despite the cold weather.

Telephone communication to outside places was crippled by the cold wave. About 18 of the 35 toll lines leading out of the city were out of communication yesterday, but repair crews were on the job this morning. Indications were that service would be restored to normalcy by evening. Telephone officials declared that local lines were not affected by the frigid weather.

Many automobiles were frozen on the streets yesterday and had to be thawed out with hot water before their motors could be started. Others had to be towed to garages with frozen radiators and other mechanical trouble developing from freezing temperatures.

Columbus Coldest City.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 28. — Columbus was the coldest city in a radius of more than 200 miles early today, according to the government weather bureau here.

Following a low point of six degrees below zero Sunday morning, the mercury today fell to one degree below shortly before daybreak.

Cincinnati followed with zero weather temperature. Toledo was two above, Cleveland four, Pittsburgh, Pa., two above, Parkersburg, W. Va., two above, Fort Wayne, two above, Indianapolis, zero.

Reports from other Ohio sections will not be available until local stations make their weekly report. None are believed to have suffered much lower temperature than Columbus registered Sunday.

Tales of suffering and privation followed close on the reports of extreme cold weather over the week-end. Numerous fires were started by overheated stoves and furnaces.

No relief is in sight for at least two days, the weather bureau declared.

Three Dead in Ohio.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 28.—With the temperature ranging from zero to a few degrees above, Cleveland and northern Ohio was suffering today from the continued cold snap ushered in with the Christmas holiday. More than 400 men were employed yesterday cleaning the heavy snowfall from the main streets, and 200 additional continued the work throughout the night.

Two deaths were attributed indirectly to the cold weather here. John Peterson, 56, died on a street car of heart disease, induced by exhaustion, while John Seeley, 33, truck driver, a victim of pneumonia, died in a police ambulance as he was being taken to a hospital.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 28.—Winter hit Cincinnati a stunning blow today, sending the mercury down to almost five degrees below zero, the lowest temperature of the season. It was indirectly responsible for one death, two accidents and nearly 100 fires in Cincinnati, Coveington and Newport, and freezing of the Ohio river and ice jams. The fires caused a total damage of about $33,000.

The Ohio river was clogged with ice floes this morning. River traffic was virtually at a standstill, while Licking river is covered with ice over an inch thick, and employes of the several coal companies that operate on the river are at work breaking the ice around the coal barges.

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 28.—Thirteen are dead from cold and exposure, more than 200 fires had been fought in the 24 hours ending at 6 a. m. today and hundreds are suffering in a cold wave which continued this morning without promise of relief for another 24 hours.

DEATH ROLL

William Sexton.

William Sexton, four year old son of Mrs. Ethel Brand, of Klondyke, died yesterday morning at the family residence following a brief illness of blood poisoning.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 at the family residence. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

The death list was the greatest in Chicago and its environs in years.

The lowest official temperature today was three below, a rise of five degrees since Sunday morning. Unofficial reports, however, ranged from 13 to 22 below in Chicago suburbs.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Fumes escaping from a gas heater, which had been left burning all night because of the terrific cold, killed a father and son and overcame a woman in an apartment at No. 52 State street early today. The dead:

James Watson, 40.
Leopold Watson, his son, 18.
Catherine Johnson, 29, was overcome but was revived.

Moderating in East.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The East, in the frigid grip of the coldest weather of the season, today was experiencing slightly moderating temperatures but the mercury still hovered close to 10 above zero. It dropped as low as seven above in New York.

Three dead in New York and vicinity was the toll resulting from the cold wave. Many suffered from exposure. Several deaths directly or indirectly due to the cold, were reported in other eastern cities.

Continued cold northwest winds was the forecast for this part of the country.

The coldest temperature in the East was recorded at Tupper Lake, N. Y.—28 degrees below zero. Below zero wether prevailed throughout New England.

Stormy conditions prevailed along the Atlantic seaboard. Radio reports told of trans-Atlantic liners, enroute to New York, battering gales and heavy seas.

In New York City, thousands of homeless sought food and shelter in Missions and lodging houses.

New England's Death Toll

BOSTON, Dec. 28.—Leaving in its wake a death toll of three, with several others in hospitals, the cold wave that held New England in its grasp was broken today.

A slowly rising temperature was discounted somewhat, however, by a strong northwest wind.

New England's cold wave death list follows:

EDWIN C. DOLLIVER, 79, wholesale grocer, died in a taxicab here, death being superinduced by cold.

PATRICK McSWEENEY, 65, dropped dead from exposure in a street in Worcester.

Mrs. Mary Coughlin, 48, died from effects of cold in Providence, R. I.

South Is Shivering.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 28. — Three deaths marked the toll today of Baltimore's near-zero weather. Forty-three fires in the last 24 hours established a new record here.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 28.—The south shivered today in the grip of the coldest wave of the year, with the mercury ranging from freezing in the extreme South to zero and below.

Records of years' standing were shattered as the thermometer dropped.

Relief Is Promised.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Some relief from the severe cold wave that has gripped the country from the Rocky mountains to the Atlantic was promised today by the United States weather bureau. Wintry weather also has extended as far south as Alabama.

The cold spell will reach its peak tonight, and probably will be followed by rising temperatures generally throughout the east and middle west, according to the bureau.

Washington suffered its coldest weather in years. The temperature dropped to 12 degrees above zero.

Schooner Destroyed by Fire

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 28.—The last six-masted schooner on the Atlantic coast, the Edward J. Lawrence, was destroyed by fire as she lay at anchor

To End Severe Cough Quickly, Try This

For real results, this old home-made remedy beats them all. Easily prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare, and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

SOVIET LAUDS COL. MITCHELL IN AIR PROBE

"Reds" See American Press Back of Aviator.

ANALYZE CASE

Charge U. S. Seeks to Lead in Aerial Affairs.

MOSCOW—Colonel "Billy" Mitchell's valiant battle for his belief in a re-organization of America's air service has found an attentive audience and an echo in the Soviet union. Communist comments are complimentary to the colonel for his courageous candor, and they prophesy that because the American press is with him, he will carry his point against all official opposition.

But, declare the Soviet critics, the whole aviation inquiry in America proves that the United States is losing its trust in geographical isolation, and that the talked-of plan for a second disarmament conference in Washington will accomplish nothing except possibly a sort of pact against the Soviet union.

Says U. S. Seeks Power

Pravada, the official organ of the Communist party, makes itself the spokesman for the Soviet viewpoint, and analyzing Mitchell's published statements, declares that they mean he wants America to become "boss of the world's air." And, the newspaper continues, the fact that the American press supports him means that America itself wants the same thing.

"The United States wants disarmament for Europe alone. The debtors must pay, and should not allow themselves the luxury of armaments.

"However, there is one factor which unites America with Europe, and that is their mutual hostility to the Soviet union. In Locarno a picture was painted to show that the only obstacle now to European peace was the Soviet union. Now comes reports from Washington that the Soviet union 'who does not want to disarm' has already been brought into the discussion over the coming disarmament conference."

This makes it timely, the newspaper declares, to refute America's claim to pacific inclinations. The only reason why the United States ever thought of disarming, says the communist organ, is because America knows she could arm herself quicker in an emergency than any other country, but this only proves, according to the Bolsehviks, that America wants disarmament for any other but pacific reasons.

"And what about armaments in America since the first disarmament conference?" asks Pravada. "The construction of the airplane carriers 'Lexington' and 'Saratoga' at an approximate cost of $100,000,000 looks like disarmament! The expenditure of nearly $7,000,000,000 on the navy and of more than $2,000,000,000 on the air fleet looks like disarmament!

Forecasts Big Force

"And the expenditures for military aviation will increase since Mitchell's incitement of a regular aviation bacchanalia. He wants to increase the air fleet to 4,800 planes. He insists on the development of civil aviation for the benefit of military aviation. He demands the government should co-operate with Ford in mass production of airplanes.

"These facts, together with Morgan's interest in aviation and dirigible transport, and the establishment of the National Air Transport company with a capital of $10,000,000, all bear witness to America's ambition."

AL G. FIELDS SHOW COMING

Great Cast Will Appear in Edition of Minstrels.

With a greater cast than ever before assembled in a minstrel show, the 39th Annual Edition of the Al G. Field Minstrels will open an engagement at the Ceramic theatre soon. Old time minstrelsy will predominate in this season's production, but there will be plenty of spice, pep and comedy to afford a solid evenings entertainment.

Bert Swor, called the premier blackface comedian of America, has returned to the cast of the Field Minstrels after several years' absence, and every lover of minstrelsy and song and comedy will be glad to welcome him back. Celebrating his return, he will present an entirely new brand of humor, in Bert's own style.

And Jack Richards and Billy Church—it seems America will never tire of hearing these two Columbus boys sing together, or separately—just so they sing. They have gained a nation-wide reputation, and have made many songs famous.

The first part scene of the show is laid in the South, at the time of the Civil war. The prologue depicts the cotton-picking scene, where all the younger generation of the negroes are pictured at work in a cotton field. Old Mammy and Uncle Remus complete the picture and the air of "Dixie" is predominant. Other scenes are laid on the lawn of an old Southern Colonial mansion, and the costuming is especially elaborate for these scenes.

Many Killed in Wreck.

MADRID, Dec. 28.—Many persons were reported to have been killed when an express train bound for Cartagena plunged down an embankment near Muricia today.

Relief trains have been dispatched to the scene.

Laurel was beginning to love the villa. She was finding about it the perpetual atmosphere of sunrise, with the songs of birds attracted by the protective trees and frequent feedings, trellises of vines, stone benches, a central pool of glistening water surrounded my sentinel poplars. She had taken upon herself the feeding of the birds; her mornings in the garden with them she looked forward to. In the afternoon she liked to lie beside the pool, looking down into the crystal clear water at its teeming population. She had found a spot shilded by the poplars and vines from observation from the house, and here she retreated almost daily. It was pleasant relief from the confining influence of the house.

Here, in the afternoon, Noble found her. She supposed he had happened upon her "nest" by chance.

"Day dreaming?"

She jumped up. "No—the fish. Nothing is more gracefully beautiful than golden fishes serenely gliding. Just watch them."

"Poetical!" There appeared to be something on his mind. She waited expectantly.

"I have something for you.

"Oh what is it?" There was the eagerness and curiosity of the child in her voice.

From an inside coat pocket he drew out a black leather case and opened it. Pearls!

Laurel bobbed a kiss upon his cheek. "You perfect dear."

"Of course you have one lovely string of pearls, but your pretty throat will be attractive with two."

Laurel kissed him again. "Bless you, dear. You need not think you must bring me something every time yuo go away. Of course anything you would bring me would be nice, but—"

Noble caught her up and pressed his lips upon hers. "I'd give the world to you if only you wiggled one little finger at me coaxingly."

Laughing, she held up a finger and wiggled it.

"It's your. Take it."

A pensive mood captured Laurel. "Noble, dear, let's go down to the lodge. Let's stay down there this week-end, just the two of us."

"That would be nice, but not this week-end, dear. We'll plan on it for next week probably."

"Why not this week-end? Are we going somewhere?"

"No, but I may be busy. Come, let's go in. I think I'd like a cup of tea."

She walked with him over the cobble-stones, set into the lawn, jumping from one to the other with the vivacity of youth and keeping Noble agile.

In the hall they met Marion. "I would like to speak to you, Marion. Come in the library, please," her father said. She followed cautiously, looking at Laurel impudently. Mrs. Harwood found reason to go upstairs.

"I have had to speak to you about your carelessness several times. You seem to take joy in destruction. What is your excuse for smashing up my beautiful lamp?"

Marion shifted her glance. "I didn't break it."

Noble evidenced surprise at the denial.

"And I know who told you that I did," Marion pressed. "She's a liar."

"Marion! Marion! Don't ever let me hear you say that again." He paused. "I do not ask you to love my wife, but I demand that you respect her."

His daughter's lip was quivering. "Well, if she's told you I broke the lamp, then she wasn't telling the truth."

"Possibly she was mistaken."

"Oh, she knows who broke it, all right."

"Well, young lady, who did?" There was a tinge of sarcasm in his tone.

"It was a boy who was here the other night . . . I had a little party."

"A little party? You didn't tell ME you were going to entertain in my absence."

"Oh, it wasn't anything formal. Just a party."

"And some of your guests got drunk and smashed up my lamp. I see it all now. Did Mrs. Harwood give you permission to hold this party?"

Marion's response was a burst of tears. "Oh, Daddy, she's making me so unhappy."

Noble was impatient, but moved.

"How is she doing that, Marion?" His voice was less stern.

"Ask Auntie, she knows," his daughter blubbered.

"But I don't quite understand."

"Ask Auntie," Marion sobbed again.

For several minutes he sat silently regarding her. What had happened? . . . He could guess. There had been the inevitable clash. Why? . . . For a moment he thought of going to Laurel for an explanation. Then he changed his mind.

Half an hour later he was hearing what Mrs. Brent Daly thought of Laurel.

In the next chapter: The Conflict.

"Go Easy, Mabel," Is Musical Comedy At Strand Theatre

White you are romping around this week, just drop into the Strand theater and give Claude Long's 1926 addition of "Buzzin' Around" the once over if you are looking for a good, fast evening's entertainment. "Buzzin"Around" is a show that starts with a smile, runs into a laugh and ends with a riot of roars. It is just one thing after another, for you will find a little vaudeville, musical comedy, farce comedy; in fact, everything that is entertaining all rolled into one big combination of enjoyment.

The "Buzzin' Around" company presents nothing but snappy bills.

The opening bill today is Charles George's latest Broadway success, "Go Easy, Mabel," which has never before been offered at popular prices. Mr Long, in engaging his cast, spared no expense in securing the cream of the musical comedy profession. Such well known favorites as Marvel Shackelton, "Bluey" Morey, Bartley Cahill, Kitty Axton, Blanch Larson, Billie Creech, Cy Reinhart, Erney DeVoy, Billy Morgan.

The orchestra will be under the direction of Ernest Creech, who is responsible for the score and lyrics.

During the action of the play many high class vaudeville specialties of the big time caliber will be offered, together with a flock of ear-teasing musical numbers.

The situation in the jewelry manufacturing centers of west Germany were never worse, due to shortage of capital, competition of French goods, high foreign tariffs and reduced local demand.

those in business offices. A thorough knowledge of her stock is also necessary to the efficient saleswoman.

That the United States is advanced in this program of raising the standards of store employees is indicated by the fact that France not only has sent a representative to make a survey of the educational methods used, but is preparing a program along similar lines.

The new French school for training saleswomen will be conducted in two sections. First, the training of people already employed in stores, and second, the training of educational directors or teachers. The latter will be on a post graduate level—that is, it is preferred that students taking this course should have had previous college work.

Americans may be proud of their women when their business efficiency is recognized to such an extent that a foreign government formally requests the assistance of one in organizing such a venture as the Ecole Technique de vente.

"No, but I may be busy. Come, let's go in. I think I'd like a cup of tea."

She walked with him over the cobble-stones, set into the lawn, jumping from one to the other with the vivacity of youth and keeping Noble agile.

In the hall they met Marion. "I would like to speak to you, Marion. Come in the library, please," her father said. She followed cautiously, looking at Laurel impudently. Mrs. Harwood found reason to go upstairs.

"I have had to speak to you about your carelessness several times. You seem to take joy in destruction. What is your excuse for smashing up my beautiful lamp?"

Marion shifted her glance. "I didn't break it."

Noble evidenced surprise at the denial.

"And I know who told you that I did," Marion pressed. "She's a liar."

"Marion! Marion! Don't ever let me hear you say that again." He paused. "I do not ask you to love my wife, but I demand that you respect her."

His daughter's lip was quivering. "Well, if she's told you I broke the lamp, then she wasn't telling the truth."

"Possibly she was mistaken."

"Oh, she knows who broke it, all right."

"Well, young lady, who did?" There was a tinge of sarcasm in his tone.

"It was a boy who was here the other night . . . I had a little party."

"A little party? You didn't tell ME you were going to entertain in my absence."

"Oh, it wasn't anything formal. Just a party."

"And some of your guests got drunk and smashed up my lamp. I see it all now. Did Mrs. Harwood give you permission to hold this party?"

Marion's response was a burst of tears. "Oh, Daddy, she's making me so unhappy."

Noble was impatient, but moved.

"How is she doing that, Marion?" His voice was less stern.

"Ask Auntie, she knows," his daughter blubbered.

"But I don't quite understand."

"Ask Auntie," Marion sobbed again.

For several minutes he sat silently regarding her. What had happened? . . . He could guess. There had been the inevitable clash. Why? . . . For a moment he thought of going to Laurel for an explanation. Then he changed his mind.

Half an hour later he was hearing what Mrs. Brent Daly thought of Laurel.

"Go Easy, Mabel," Is Musical Comedy At Strand Theatre

White you are romping around this week, just drop into the Strand theater and give Claude Long's 1926 addition of "Buzzin' Around" the once over if you are looking for a good, fast evening's entertainment. "Buzzin"Around" is a show that starts with a smile, runs into a laugh and ends with a riot of roars. It is just one thing after another, for you will find a little vaudeville, musical comedy, farce comedy; in fact, everything that is entertaining all rolled into one big combination of enjoyment.

The "Buzzin' Around" company presents nothing but snappy bills.

The opening bill today is Charles George's latest Broadway success, "Go Easy, Mabel," which has never before been offered at popular prices. Mr Long, in engaging his cast, spared no expense in securing the cream of the musical comedy profession. Such well known favorites as Marvel Shackelton, "Bluey" Morey, Bartley Cahill, Kitty Axton, Blanch Larson, Billie Creech, Cy Reinhart, Erney DeVoy, Billy Morgan.

The orchestra will be under the direction of Ernest Creech, who is responsible for the score and lyrics.

During the action of the play many high class vaudeville specialties of the big time caliber will be offered, together with a flock of ear-teasing musical numbers.

The situation in the jewelry manufacturing centers of west Germany were never worse, due to shortage of capital, competition of French goods, high foreign tariffs and reduced local demand.

those in business offices. A thorough knowledge of her stock is also necessary to the efficient saleswoman.

That the United States is advanced in this program of raising the standards of store employees is indicated by the fact that France not only has sent a representative to make a survey of the educational methods used, but is preparing a program along similar lines.

The new French school for training saleswomen will be conducted in two sections. First, the training of people already employed in stores, and second, the training of educational directors or teachers. The latter will be on a post graduate level—that is, it is preferred that students taking this course should have had previous college work.

Americans may be proud of their women when their business efficiency is recognized to such an extent that a foreign government formally requests the assistance of one in organizing such a venture as the Ecole Technique de vente.

Mayor Brown Writes to President Regarding Reunion.

OTHERS INVITED

Affair Will be Held at Meyers Lake, Canton.

The National Brotherhood of Operative Potters will leave no stone unturned to bring President Calvin Coolidge to their second annual reunion, which will be held at Meyers' Lake park, near Canton, next June.

Congressman Frank Murphy of Steubenville carried the invitation of the Brotherhood to the nation's chief executive just after the opening of congress early in December. President Coolidge took the invitation under advisement and will give his answer early in the new year, it is understood.

At the request of Brotherhood officials, Mayor Charles Brown recently wrote the president as follows:

"We have learned that the Honorable Frank Murphy, congressman from the state of Ohio, has extended to you an invitation to attend the annual reunion of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, at Canton, next June.

"As mayor of the city of East Liverpool, where are located the headquarters of not only the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters but also the United States Potters' association, I am honored and more than pleased on behalf of our fair city and its citizens to have you as our most honored guest on the occasion of the 1926 reunion."

Steps have been taken to make next year's affair even more of a success than was this year's reunion, when 15,000 potters and their friends from three states assembled at the Canton resort. The speakers were Governor A. V. Donahey, of Columbus; William Green, Coshocton, president of the American Federation of Labor; and T. J. Duffy, Columbus, chairman of the state industrial commission and former president of the N. B. of O. P.

'No, No, Nanette,' Musical Triumph, Here Thursday Night

Song Hits Feature Reigning Sensation of New York, Chicago, London and Australia.

It is welcome news that "No, No, Nanette," now the reigning sensation of New York, London and Australia, and which played to solid capacity for more than a year in Chicago and completely stole the hearts of Boston theatre-goers for seven months, as it did for 27 weeks in Philadelphia, is booked for Thursday, Dec. 31, at the Ceramic theatre.

"No, No, Nanette," with its famous song hits, "I Want To Be Happy" and "Tea For Two," is the outstanding musical sensation of this generation, its irresistible toe-tickling melodies being literally sung nightly in all the great amusement capitals of the world.

When H. H. Frazee opened "No, No, Nanette" originally in Chicago, he looked for possibly eight good weeks at the Harris theatre. So, he felt safe in promising his new musical comedy for a fairly early engagement in New York. However, "No, No, Nanette" soon began to make history in the Windy city. The town went wild over "I Want To Be Happy" and all the other song hits. And it laughed itself into hysterics over the brilliant humor of the book. The girls of the ensemble were declared to be the pick of the revues in smartness and beauty. The theatre reached a solid and sustained "sell-out" record and the booking was extended indefinitely, rounding out 500 performances.

A cast of stellar excellence, headed by John Hyams and Leila McIntyre, is promised by Mr. Frazee, presenting such sterling musical comedy favorites as Dorothy Newell, Eulalie Young, Roland Woodruff, Floyd English, Heen Case, Mildred Joy, Janearl Johnson, Myrtle Miller and a dozen or more other principals or equal renown. The chorus is an exceptionally interesting one. The same picturesque scenic production and startling costumes will be in evidence as well as the gorgeous garden of girls, which has been a conspicuous feature in "No, No, Nanette's" conquest of two hemispheres.

Continued Prosperity is Predicted for District in 1926.

Industrial activity in the Lisbon district is more pronounced now than for many months, and there is marked indication that the business depression has been passed. Manufacturers in this territory hold the view that 1926 will turn out to be a good year, and this opinion is based upon the volume of 1926 business now on file.

The Wright Manufacturing company, producers of hoists and similar equipment, is working full time and from three to four nights per week. Last fall operations at this plant were on a part time basis.

At the plant of the American Vitrified Products company, production of hot tops for the steel industry is steady, the requirements of purchasers being heavier just now than for some months past.

Steady production is the record of the Excelsior Fire Clay company, which did not lose a day during 1925 because of the business depression. Future orders with this interest for 1926 delivery are heavy, and the plant will continue on a steady basis.

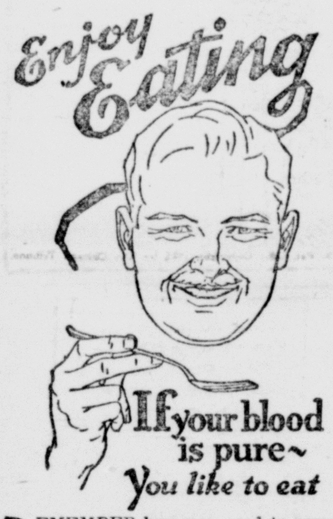
Considerable new business has been filed with the Lisbon plant of R. Thomas Sons and with their new tunnel kiln in operation a heavier production during 1926 than that of 1925 will follow.

The plant of the Lisbon Cement company is also in steady operation, also that of the Saratoga Fire Clay company.

The mines of the Seger Fuel company at Power Point and those of the Kirk Dunn company at Legtown are in steady production, both mines working on a full time basis, and with demand heavy.

Needy Families Assisted.

The Salvation Army of Salem did not overlook the needy in the Lisbon district in the distribution of Christmas baskets. Not many were required for the Lisbon territory. Several families about Lisbon were given Christmas baskets by "unknown" donors.



REMEMBER how you used to come in from play hungry as a bear? Bet you could hardly wait until Dad filled your plate!

And didn't everything taste good! Seemed like you never would get enough. Didn't you feel good those days. Yes, they were the red blooded days.

Why isn't your appetite like that now? Why don't you like to eat just the same as you did in those days? Here's the reason—your system is simply starving for the lack of rich, red blood! You've lost your appetite because you've lost your red blood power. No red blood nourishment for the tissues of your body.

Build up your blood to where it is pure and red and rich and watch that appetite come back! S. S. S. is the way to do it! S. S. S. helps Nature build red-blood-cells — builds them by the millions!

You'll get hungry and you'll enjoy eating when S. S. S. helps Nature build pure red cells in that weak blood of yours. And you'll look better—your skin will be clear and unblemished—your flesh will become firm and solid—strength and power will come to your flabby muscles—you'll be yourself again.

S. S. S. will bring back the joy of eating—the joy of living. It's done it for thousands for generations. It's going to do it for you, too.

Get S. S. S. at your druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.

Automobile Owners Slow Obtaining New 1926 License Plates

County Auditor Charles E. Hamilton, chief deputy registrar and Sheriff Geerfe Wright today announced that the state automobile department has issued no time extension order and that the instructions from Columbus are to pick up every one operating a motor vehicle Jan. 1 bearing a 1925 license plate.

"People can blame no one but themselves," Auditor Hamilton and Sheriff Wright declared. "The newspapers have given the matter wide publicity, and ample warning has been given. The time is drawing short, and there is bound to be an eleventh-hour rush, all of which will mean that many will not be able to procure their license plates should they wait until the last day."

The apathy in obtaining 1926 plates is noticeable all over the county. A few over 700 plates have been issued at Lisbon for the central part of the county, and at Leetonia only 200 plates have been issued out of a possible list of 600 motor owners in that territory. This average is said to be held in the offices of all other district deputy registrars. According to the record of bills of sale now on file, over 12,000 licenses remain to be taken out before Jan. 1.

Real Prison Car In 'Limited Mail,' At The American

George Hill, director of "The Limited Mail," the Warner Bros. classic of the screen, which began a three-day engagement at the American theatre today, had to break the barriers of government restriction to get first hand information concerning the transportation of federal prisoners in order to screen the picture accurately.

One sequence in "The Limited Mail" calls for a prison car to show the action and reaction of prisoners about to serve sentence, and Mr. Hill was anxious to have that car under close observation. Special permission from Washington was obtained whereby Hill, his assistant, M. K. Wilson and Darryl Francis Zanuck, the scenarist, were passengers on a prison car that left Los Angeles for Fort Leavenworth.

With Eighteen Prisoners.

There were eighteen prisoners besides the picture people, who had placed themselves under the jurisdiction of the attending warden and had secured heavy bond. Six guards (three being a guard for every three men) the warden, a cook and his helpers completed the party.

The specially constructed car which at first glimpse looked like one of the old time tourist pullman coaches except for the barred windows and absence of lower berths, was bare except for several tables and chair kept snug against the wall. At one end was a stove, ice box and various things needed to prepare meals. Hence the chef held sway and cooked food three times a day. The car was sealed at both ends at the start of the journey and is never opened until the end of the trip except under government orders.

Reproduced in Picture.

The means and methods in which the men, both prisoners and guards, lived, was an interesting experience, according to Hill. They joked and laughed together as if on the best of social standing, with no feeling of restraint. In fact, if it had not been for the stark reality of the prison car an outsider might have thought it a private picnic of some kind.

The historic mansion of Bentley Priory, near Edgeware, England, which contains 166 rooms, has been acquired by the Air Ministry as headquarters for administration purposes.

GOOD OUTLOOK FOR BUSINESS

Continued Prosperity is Predicted for District in 1926.

Industrial activity in the Lisbon district is more pronounced now than for many months, and there is marked indication that the business depression has been passed. Manufacturers in this territory hold the view that 1926 will turn out to be a good year, and this opinion is based upon the volume of 1926 business now on file.

The Wright Manufacturing company, producers of hoists and similar equipment, is working full time and from three to four nights per week. Last fall operations at this plant were on a part time basis.

At the plant of the American Vitrified Products company, production of hot tops for the steel industry is steady, the requirements of purchasers being heavier just now than for some months past.

Steady production is the record of the Excelsior Fire Clay company, which did not lose a day during 1925 because of the business depression. Future orders with this interest for 1926 delivery are heavy, and the plant will continue on a steady basis.

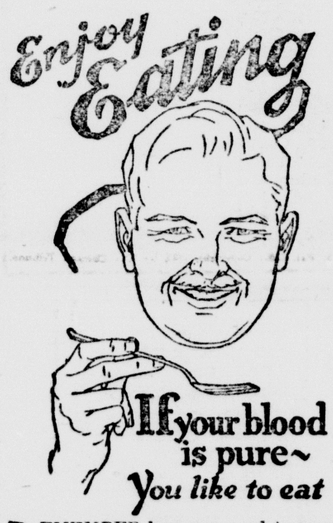
Considerable new business has been filed with the Lisbon plant of R. Thomas Sons and with their new tunnel kiln in operation a heavier production during 1926 than that of 1925 will follow.

The plant of the Lisbon Cement company is also in steady operation, also that of the Saratoga Fire Clay company.

The mines of the Seger Fuel company at Power Point and those of the Kirk Dunn company at Legtown are in steady production, both mines working on a full time basis, and with demand heavy.

Needy Families Assisted.

The Salvation Army of Salem did not overlook the needy in the Lisbon district in the distribution of Christmas baskets. Not many were required for the Lisbon territory. Several families about Lisbon were given Christmas baskets by "unknown" donors.



REMEMBER how you used to come in from play hungry as a bear? Bet you could hardly wait until Dad filled your plate!

And didn't everything taste good! Seemed like you never would get enough. Didn't you feel good those days. Yes, they were the red blooded days.

Why isn't your appetite like that now? Why don't you like to eat just the same as you did in those days? Here's the reason—your system is simply starving for the lack of rich, red blood! You've lost your appetite because you've lost your red blood power. No red blood nourishment for the tissues of your body.

Build up your blood to where it is pure and red and rich and watch that appetite come back! S. S. S. is the way to do it! S. S. S. helps Nature build red-blood-cells—builds them by the millions!

You'll get hungry and you'll enjoy eating when S. S. S. helps Nature build pure red cells in that weak blood of yours. And you'll look better—your skin will be clear and unblemished—your flesh will become firm and solid—strength and power will come to your flabby muscles—you'll be yourself again.

S. S. S. will bring back the joy of eating—the joy of living. It's done it for thousands for generations. It's going to do it for you, too.

Get S. S. S. at your druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.

Automobile Owners Slow Obtaining New 1926 License Plates

County Auditor Charles E. Hamilton, chief deputy registrar and Sheriff Geerfe Wright today announced that the state automobile department has issued no time extension order and that the instructions from Columbus are to pick up every one operating a motor vehicle Jan. 1 bearing a 1925 license plate.

"People can blame no one but themselves," Auditor Hamilton and Sheriff Wright declared. "The newspapers have given the matter wide publicity, and ample warning has been given. The time is drawing short, and there is bound to be an eleventh-hour rush, all of which will mean that many will not be able to procure their license plates should they wait until the last day."

The apathy in obtaining 1926 plates is noticeable all over the county. A few over 700 plates have been issued at Lisbon for the central part of the county, and at Leetonia only 200 plates have been issued out of a possible list of 600 motor owners in that territory. This average is said to be held in the offices of all other district deputy registrars. According to the record of bills of sale now on file, over 12,000 licenses remain to be taken out before Jan. 1.

Sunday School Teams Back in Action Tonight.

AFTER a week's layoff, Sunday school basketball leaguers will get back into action tonight with two engagements billed for the M. E. court and an exhibition contest on the I. O. O. F. floor.

The exhibition was arranged following the postponement of the scheduled clash between the Lutherans and the United Presbyterians.

Nile Wain will referee tonight's games; Chuck McConville is slated to work the Tuesday engagements and Harry Davies will have charge of the Saturday games. No officials have been named yet for the tilts on Thursday.

Here is the week's schedule:

Tonight—(M. E court)—M. E. vs. Chester Presbyterians; U. P. Juniors vs. Baptist Juniors; (I. O. O. F. court)—exhibition.

Tuesday—M. P. court)—M. P. vs. Penn Ave.; Chester Juniors vs. St. Stephens' Juniors; (Odd Fellows)—Park Boulevard vs. Baptists; Presbyterian Juniors vs. Baptist Juniors.

Thursday—(St. Stephens' court)—St. Stephen's vs. Christians; Park Boulevards vs. Presbyterians.

Saturday—(Y. M. C. A.)—Presbyterians vs. Baptists; United Presbyterians vs. M. E.

MILLER BROS. LAND OPENER

Columbiana Passers Trim Lowellville Five.

COLUMBIANA, Dec. 28.—In their opening game, the Miller Bros., independent basketball team won 35 to 18 in a fast and rough encounter over the Lowellville A. C. The largest crowd of the basketball season witnessed two exciting and interesting games. Miller Bros., strengthened by the addition of Thomas, center of Conneaut high school last year, and Howe, a forward from Youngstown, have probably the fastest aggregation they have ever had. The veterans, Anderson, McMaster, Gaham and Hawkins are again with the team. While Hawkins was the scoring star, making seven baskets, Thomas was the all-around star of the game, ably assisted by strong guarding by McMaster and Anderson. Perry Kyser did well in the few minutes he played.

In the preliminary game the Columbiana High School girls were defeated by a team of E-High girls captained by "Shorty" Brungard, the score being 17-13. The Ex-Highs started off like a whirlwind, the first quarter ending 10-1, but their lack of condition showed and the High School lassies gradually crept up, but their shooting was atrocious, and while their floor work was good they missed several times as many shots as the Alumni girls. Guard Orr of the High School team was absent, necessitating the playing of Capt. Gleckner at guard most of the game, which greatly weakened the scoring. The Ex-Highs were only able to muster five players, so Catherine Tidd, a High School freshman, helped them, and did very well. Detailed score:

Pro Golf Champ Plans Trip Around the World

McGraw May Reinstate Suspended Slab Star

Hugh McQuillen, Giant pitcher, suspended last season for failing to keep in condition, probably will be reinstated. McGraw is said to have promised McQuillen another chance if he will guarantee to keep in shape.

Graduates Round Up Strong Cage Outfit

DeBolt, Pusey, Smith, McConville and Liebschner Will Probably Carry Ex-High Colors With Other Stars in Reserve; Action Promised in Girls' Game.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR O. V. BOONE today announced definitely that the scheduled clash between Coach Lorah's high school five and the alumni, originally carded for Thursday night, New Year's eve, will be played, instead, on Wednesday night at the high school gymnasium.

The shift in dates was considered advisable by school authorities because of the several other attractions on the board for that particular night. And it is probable that there will also be a change in the starting time of the game, with the preliminary between high and ex-high girls, starting at 7 o'clock sharp.

It has never been difficult in years past to round up a strong alumni basketball squad and the coming contest will develop no exception to the rule.

A tentative lineup that the graduates are figuring on will place Don DeBolt, of W. & J., and Bob Pusey, of Franklin and Marshall academy, at the forwards; Firth Smith, of Denison, at center, and "Chuck" McConville, of Franklin and Marshall, and Dale Liebschner, star all around high school athlete of last year, at the guard posts.

There will be several others of practically equal ability, although the alumni have not yet completed their roster.

Colin "Slim" Bromby was considered for duty at the center post, along with Smith, but the Mount Union star is still suffering from the effects of an injury to one of his knees, sustained during the football season, and it is not likely that he'll get into action.

The girls' contest will vie for fans' interest, inasmuch as a majority of last year's crack sextet will probably be playing against Mrs. Mast's lassies. Nominees for places on the Ex-High squad include Gertrude Weaver, Dorothy Kannal, Dorothy Cooper, Martha Faulk, Irene McElravey and Leona McConville.

Facing Ruin, Kentucky Race Tracks Seek Aid

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 8. — Two Kentucky race tracks need state aid or must go out of business. They have been referred to the state legislature.

The Striblings are on their honeymoon and left Atlanta for the north, following their marriage on Saturday. The boxer was expected to pay his respects to Tex Rickard today but whether the call would be of a business or social nature was not known.

Stribling met Paul Berlenbach, the present holder of the light heavyweight title, several years ago, the bout resulting in a draw decision after six rounds. The Georgia flash, however, has attained his majority in the meantime and can box at the championship limit of fifteen rounds in this state.

RUSSIAN POINTS TO STECHER BOUT

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Ivan Poddubny, Russian Wrestler, hopes to take another step tonight toward a world's championship meeting with Joe Stecher, of Omaha, present holder of the title. He will meet Angello Taramaschi, of Italy, in a finish bout.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By Norman E. Brown

The most earnest thoughts of baseball moguls and managers very often prove later to be nothing but wild chatter. It seems, however, as though Connie Mack's prediction anent the possibilities of Al Simmons being the big star of the 1926 campaign, has some foundation in fact.

Simmons had the unique distinction in 1925 of outhitting both Harry Heilmann, who won the league batting title, and Tris Speaker, runner up for the honor.

On percentage Simmons ended the season seven points below Heilmann and three points behind Speaker. But a closer scrutiny of the records reveals the fact that Mr. Simmons collected 28 more base hits than Heilmann, exceeded his total base mark by 66 bases, and scored 25 more runs.

He made 68 more hits than Speaker, 146 more total bases and scored 46 more runs.

A wide margin in both cases.

Also Mr. Simmons led both big leagues in collecting 253 base hits for a total of 392 bases.

A fair year's work for a man who was called a "gamble" when Mack paid $40,000 for him two years ago and theen proceeded to amaze the technicians by socking the ball from the unorthodox position of having his foot in the water bucket.

Rogers Hornsby, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, says he believes that 12 hours sleep is needed to keep a ball player fit. But none of this 12 hours is to be taken on the ball field.

Speaking of baseball records, the "nominal" record holders draw but little glory at the close of the yearly season but they may find a small crumb of comfort in their marks.

For instance, Chester Falik, St. Louis outfielder who started out once to be a pitcher, really led the American league in batting, if "nominal" figures are listed. He went to bat just eight times in the year and socked out five hits—all singles, incidentally—for a percentage of .625.

But it doesn't mean anything, except a certain amount of satisfaction to Chester himself.

The Philadelphia Athletics made the greatest number of hits in the American league in 1925, according to the official records. Which proves many things but mainly the fact that it takes more than base hits to win a pennant.

FIVE ELEVENS GO UNBEATEN

Dartmouth Best, With Alabama, Michigan Close Behind.

Five teams, Dartmouth, Alabama, Washington, Colgate and Tulane, and one man, Harold "Red" Grange, of Illinois, contributed to the general gaiety of the 1925 football season, the former because they survived the campaign undefeated, the latter because he exploited his ball-running ability to a point where it paid him hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Grange was the first collegian to leave the campus for the professional gridiron and make it pay him in big, serious money. The echo of the whistle in his final college game was hardly stilled when Grange joined the Chicago Bears and within a fortnight had won himself $100,000 in gate receipts and advertising gratuities and a movie contract alleged to be worth $300,000 for one picture.

Poor Record as "Pro."

And, in spite of the furore, quite a few reputable critics did not believe that Grange was entitled to a place on the first All-American team. He ran wild against Pennsylvania, but otherwise did little to distinguish himself. He did even less against the "pro" outfits, beyond establishing an endurance record by playing eight games in 12 days.

As a matter of fact, "Swede" Oberlander, of Dartmouth, was generally hailed as the greatest back of the year, with Ernie Nevers, of Stanford; Wilson, of Washington, Flournoy, of Tulane, and Pooley Hubert, of Alabama, receiving sporadic support for the honors.

Critics were equally divided as to the best football team of the season. Dartmouth and Alabama were the only outfits to finish the season without a defeat or tie and the general tendency was to rate Dartmouth at the top. However, there were those who held forth for Michigan, which only had three points scored against it. These, however, were enough to give Northwestern a 3-to-2 decision and deprive the Wolverine of his rightful position.

BRITISH AND FRENCH GOLF KINGS TO MEET JONES AND GUNN IN BIG TILT

By Norman E. Brown.

As most golf addicts recall, one of the most exciting moments in the links game of the long departed summer of 1925 was the battle waged by Bobby Jones, 1924 king, and Watts Gunn, his own neighbor, for the amateur newcomer in tournament play, extended Jones to the limit in a day's golf that was bad for the weakhearted.

Europe, about the same time, was thrilled with the close finish in the French open championship tourney. Arnaud Massey, French star, and Arthur Compston, British amateur champion, faced each other in the fnal of the French tourney and were tied when the final hole had been played Massey won the honor in the play-off that was necessary to decide it.

It is of unusual interest, therefore, that Jones and Gunn, playing together this time, are scheduled to face Compston and Massey, as a team, in an exhibition match at St. Augustine, Fla., Jan. 3.

This will be the first big golf match of the baby year of 1926. It promises to produce a brand of golf that will be something for the leading lights to shoot at the rest of the year.

Jones is without a doubt the greatest tournament player in the game today. Gunn, a pupil of Jones, gave evidence in the national open that he will make a bid for major honors within the next two or three seasons.

Compston heads the European golfers for 1925, at least. He won the British amateur, as chronicled, finished a stroke or two behind Long Jim Barnes American and victor, in the British open, and then played his way into the final of the French open.

In addition to these achievements he defeated Abe Mitchell, another well known British star familiar to American golfers, on two occasions and also won two $5,000 tournaments.

Massey, in turning back the British in the French open, showed his class as a tournament golfer. After playing superb golf through the tourney he nosed out Compton in the play-off by one stroke.

The Europeans, making their first appearance here, bring plenty of experience. Compston is 32, and has been playing since his youth, Massey is near 40. He won the British open title back in 1907.

Jones is twenty-three and Gunn but 19. Bobby, however, has been playing tournament golf for something like seven or eight years.

PUTS LAZERRE AT PIVOT JOB

Huggins to Use Coast Star at Second in 1926.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Tony Lazerre, Pacific coast slugger, will cavort at second base for the Yankees next season—if he cavorts at all.

That's the official communicado from Miller Huggins.

And it may mean much or nothing.

No infielder in years has come up to the majors with quite so much ballyhoo as has accompanied Lazerre on the big jump. Coast league experts pronounce him a fielding marvel. His batting average speaks for itself. And, according to the lads who know, he has a whole head full of baseball intelligence.

Which may run for mayor—or for Sweeney.

For grabbing that second base job on the Yankees next year will be no lead pipe cinch. Aaron Ward has been more cussed than discussed in the past year, But Wardie is still a young man, and capable of playing high grade ball. Not so many seasons ago he was looked upon as the best keystoner in the league.

Ward on Market.

Huggins has announced that Wardie is on the market. But he hasn't been traded yet. And if he is traded some veteran infielder of recognized ability will replace him in Yankee uniform.

Overcoming Wardie or his veteran successor will be Mr. Lazerre's first hurdle on the road to fame.

Following which accomplishment he will find the bow-legged figure of little Mike Gazella standing between him and the ultimate goal. Gazella was up with the Yankees a few seasons ago—and game promise of big things. But he couldn't quite make the grade and was sent back to the minors. Last season he played with Atlanta and burned up the league. Apparently he has arrived.

If Mr. Huggins says Lazerre will start at second base the chances are the advertised Tony will do just that thing. But he'll have to show something more than a clipping book of newspaper stories to hold the job.

Atlantations Get Call.

No less than five former members of the Atlanta club will cavort in Yankee uniforms this spring, unless they are traded meantime.

Of the lot, quite the likeliest looking candidate seems to be "Nick" Cullop, the man who chased all the alligators out of St. Petersburg. Nick can hit the apple—and is a pretty fair fielder into the bargain.

Breaking into the Yankee outfield will be a man sized job and Nick may not make it—but it's a dead certain cinch that a half dozen other clubs will be waiting around to grab him before he has a chance to dirty his uniform in the baseball ash can.

START NATIONAL INDOOR NET PLAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—With nearly one hundred entries, the National Junior Indoor championship in tennis singles will get under way today at a local armory, the feature match bringing together Malcolm Hill, of Waban, Mass., and Julius Seligson, one of the best of the local field. Hill is the playing-through champion, but is expected to encounter stubborn opposition from Seligson.

Other feature players include H. B. Wells, of Harvard; Robert Kaufman, of Yale, and Donald Strachan, of Philadelphia. The first round of the boys' championship has been put forward until tomorrow.

Masseur Is "Strong" Candidate For Mayor's Job In Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 28.—The strongest candidate for mayor of Youngstown may not win.

"Bathhouse" Barnes, famous masseur, is running for mayor of this city. He claims to be the strongest candidate who ever ran for office in the world. He can:

Pull a great weight with an iron comb fastened in his hair.

Lift 200 pounds with one hand and raise it a full arm's length above his head.

Bend a railroad spike with his bare hands.

Lift a man above his head with one hand.

Barnes says he will be "boss" of city hall. He claims he will be "no man's shadow." Every member of the police force will be put through his system of strenuous setting-up exercises every day by him. Firemen will have to learn to do his tricks to hold their jobs. He'll show them how.

The masseur is the man who took care of "Al" Kish, the marathon dancer who won the world's championship here when he danced a week without stopping. He was the only dancer who danced continuously with a partner.

Barnes has famous steel men, bankers, circus performers and athletes among his patrons.

For many years he gave physical culture demonstrations and lectured on health.

Now, he avers, he is out to finish the job started by the eccentric and wealthy George L. Oles, who was elected mayor of Youngstown four years ago, gave his salary to charity and resigned due to ill health and because he was "tired fighting off politicians."

Colleges Will Launch Campaign Against Professional Football

First Step to be Taken Today at Coaches' Meeting, Which, Critics Say, Won't Amount to Anything.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—In the rather superfluous hope that the Grange incident never will be repeated, intercollegiate football will spend the next 60 hours declaring itself on the subject of professionalism and attempting to draft punitive measures against money players and the game that supports them. The first step will be taken today at the annual meeting of the American Football Coaches' association at the Hotel Pennsylvania. It won't amount to anything.

Subsequently, the National Collegiate Athletic association which really can stimulate action, will take up the subject at its annual meeting on Wednesday and a debate has been scheduled with Major L. Griffith, of the western conference, advocating his program of chastisement for the pro. Just for the sake of argument, so to speak, Professor Folsom, of the University of Colorado, is down on the books to take the negative side.

However, when the last voice is stilled, it will remain for the pros themselves to alter conditions, if at all. Tim Mara, one of the owners of the New York Giant franchise, has advocated that the professional league decline to do business with any college player until his class has graduated.

Coaches Offer Suggestions.

Like breathing and wife beating, it seems to be something that a man has to do for himself. The pros can change conditions. The colleges merely can pass resolutions and issue threats of reprisals.

The coaches, being a type of professional and having no legislative standing, can only offer suggestions. These are listened to with bland tolerance by the association, which then proceeds to go ahead and do what is pleases.

However, some interesting conversation may be expected today. The president of the coaches' association is Bob Zuppke, of Illinois, and it is known that he feels very bitterly over the decision of Red Grange, his self-made star, to go over to professional football without completing his college course. He and the other coaches declare they are determined that it shall not happen again. They probably haxe exercised themselves unduly.

There is not likely to be another Grange for 20 years. Advertised beyond all reason, he enjoyed a complex for making himself sensational and, in consequencee, his box office value was too good to keep until the following fall. When the excitement dies down, professional football will return to normal. So will professional salaries, which Grange unwittingly inflated all along the line.

When that happens, the colleges can forget the incident. Collegiate football occupies one niche. Professional football another. And there seems to be room at the box office for both.

MILLER BROS. LAND OPENER

Columbiana Passers Trim Lowellville Five.

COLUMBIANA, Dec. 28.—In their opening game, the Miller Bros., independent basketball team won 35 to 18 in a fast and rough encounter over the Lowellville A. C. The largest crowd of the basketball season witnessed two exciting and interesting games. Miller Bros., strengthened by the addition of Thomas, center of Conneaut high school last year, and Howe, a forward from Youngstown, have probably the fastest aggregation they have ever had. The veterans, Anderson, McMaster, Gaham and Hawkins are again with the team. While Hawkins was the scoring star, making seven baskets, Thomas was the all-around star of the game, ably assisted by strong guarding by McMaster and Anderson. Perry Kyser did well in the few minutes he played.

In the preliminary game the Columbiana High School girls were defeated by a team of E High girls captained by "Shorty" Brungard, the score being 17-13. The Ex-Highs started off like a whirlwind, the first quarter ending 10-1, but their lack of condition showed and the High School lassies gradually crept up, but their shooting was atrocious, and while their floor work was good they missed several times as many shots as the Alumni girls. Guard Orr of the High School team was absent, necessitating the playing of Capt. Gleckner at guard most of the game, which greatly weakened the scoring. The Ex-Highs were only able to muster five players, so Catherine Tidd, a High School freshman, helped them, and did very well. Detailed score:

Pro Golf Champ Plans Trip Around the World

Walter Hagen, professional golf champion, is going to make a golfing trip around the world next year. It will start with an invasion of the British Isles at the time of the British open and will include the French open and other European tournaments.

McGraw May Reinstate Suspended Slab Star

Hugh McQuillen, Giant pitcher, suspended last season for failing to keep in condition, probably will be reinstated. McGraw is said to have promised McQuillen another chance if he will guarantee to keep in shape.

Graduates Round Up Strong Cage Outfit

DeBolt, Pusey, Smith, McConville and Liebschner Will Probably Carry Ex-High Colors With Other Stars in Reserve; Action Promised in Girls' Game.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR O. V. BOONE today announced definitely that the scheduled clash between Coach Lorah's high school five and the alumni, originally carded for Thursday night, New Year's eve, will be played, instead, on Wednesday night at the high school gymnasium.

The shift in dates was considered advisable by school authorities because of the several other attractions on the board for that particular night. And it is probable that there will also be a change in the starting time of the game, with the preliminary between high and ex-high girls, starting at 7 o'clock sharp.

It has never been difficult in years past to round up a strong alumni basketball squad and the coming contest will develop no exception to the rule.

A tentative lineup that the graduates are figuring on will place Don DeBolt, of W. & J., and Bob Pusey, of Franklin and Marshall academy, at the forwards; Firth Smith, of Denison, at center, and "Chuck" McConville, of Franklin and Marshall, and Dale Liebschner, star all around high school athlete of last year, at the guard posts.

There will be several others of practically equal ability, although the alumni have not yet completed their roster.

Colin "Slim" Bromby was considered for duty at the center post, along with Smith, but the Mount Union star is still suffering from the effects of an injury to one of his knees, sustained during the football season, and it is not likely that he'll get into action.

The girls' contest will vie for fans' interest, inasmuch as a majority of last year's crack sextet will probably be playing against Mrs. Mast's lassies. Nominees for places on the Ex-High squad include Gertrude Weaver, Dorothy Kannal, Dorothy Cooper, Martha Faulk, Irene McElravey and Leona McConville.

Facing Ruin, Kentucky Race Tracks Seek Aid

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 8. — Two Kentucky race tracks need state aid or must go out of business. Dade park and Raceland lost $70,000 and $50,000, respectively, during 1925 and have appealed to the racing commission for the reduction of the daily state tax of $2,500. They have been referred to the state legislature.

Welsh, with 234, and Manypenny, with 206, are leading competitors for the Liberty prizes, in ten pins and ducks, respectively. Contenders will roll up to New Year's eve.

Subsequently, the National Collegiate Athletic association which really can stimulate action, will take up the subject at its annual meeting on Wednesday and a debate has been scheduled with Major L. Griffith, of the western conference, advocating his program of chastisement for the pro. Just for the sake of argument, so to speak, Professor Folsom, of the University of Colorado, is down on the books to take the negative side.

However, when the last voice is stilled, it will remain for the pros themselves to alter conditions, if at all. Tim Mara, one of the owners of the New York Giant franchise, has advocated that the professional league decline to do business with any college player until his class has graduated.

Coaches Offer Suggestions.

Like breathing and wife beating, it seems to be something that a man has to do for himself. The pros can change conditions. The colleges merely can pass resolutions and issue threats of reprisals.

The coaches, being a type of professional and having no legislative standing, can only offer suggestions. These are listened to with bland tolerance by the association, which then proceeds to go ahead and do what is pleases.

However, some interesting conversation may be expected today. The president of the coaches' association is Bob Zuppke, of Illinois, and it is known that he feels very bitterly over the decision of Red Grange, his self-made star, to go over to professional football without completing his college course. He and the other coaches declare they are determined that it shall not happen again. They probably haxe exercised themselves unduly. There is not likely to be another Grange for 20 years. Advertised beyond all reason, he enjoyed a complex for making himself sensational and, in consequencee, his box office value was too good to keep until the following fall. When the excitement dies down, professional football will return to normal. So will professional salaries, which Grange unwittingly inflated all along the line.

When that happens, the colleges can forget the incident. Collegiate football another. And there seems to be room at the box office for both.

PUTS LAZERRE AT PIVOT JOB

Huggins to Use Coast Star at Second in 1926.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Tony Lazerre, Pacific coast slugger, will cavort at second base for the Yankees next season—if he cavorts at all.

That's the official communicado from Miller Huggins.

And it may mean much or nothing.

No infielder in years has come up to the majors with quite so much ballyhoo as has accompanied Lazerre on the big jump. Coast league experts pronounce him a fielding marvel. His batting average speaks for itself. And, according to the lads who know, he has a whole head full of baseball intelligence.

Which may run for mayor—or for Sweeney.

For grabbing that second base job on the Yankees next year will be no lead pipe cinch. Aaron Ward has been more cussed than discussed in the past year, But Wardie is still a young man, and capable of playing high grade ball. Not so many seasons ago he was looked upon as the best keystoner in the league.

Ward on Market.

Huggins has announced that Wardie is on the market. But he hasn't been traded yet. And if he is traded some veteran infielder of recognized ability will replace him in Yankee uniform.

Overcoming Wardie or his veteran successor will be Mr. Lazerre's first hurdle on the road to fame.

Following which accomplishment he will find the bow-legged figure of little Mike Gazella standing between him and the ultimate goal. Gazella was up with the Yankees a few seasons ago—and game promise of big things. But he couldn't quite make the grade and was sent back to the minors. Last season he played with Atlanta and burned up the league. Apparently he has arrived.

If Mr. Huggins says Lazerre will start at second base the chances are the advertised Tony will do just that thing. But he'll have to show something more than a clipping book of newspaper stories to hold the job.

Atlantations Get Call.

No less than five former members of the Atlanta club will cavort in Yankee uniforms this spring, unless they are traded meantime.

Of the lot, quite the likeliest looking candidate seems to be "Nick" Cullop, the man who chased all the alligators out of St. Petersburg. Nick can hit the apple—and is a pretty fair fielder into the bargain.

Breaking into the Yankee outfield will be a man sized job and Nick may not make it—but it's a dead certain cinch that a half dozen other clubs will be waiting around to grab him before he has a chance to dirty his uniform in the baseball ash can.

START NATIONAL INDOOR NET PLAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—With nearly one hundred entries, the National Junior Indoor championship in tennis singles will get under way today at a local armory, the feature match bringing together Malcolm Hill, of Waban, Mass., and Julius Seligson, one of the best of the local field. Hill is the playing-through champion, but is expected to encounter stubborn opposition from Seligson.

Other feature players include H. B. Wells, of Harvard; Robert Kaufman, of Yale, and Donald Strachan, of Philadelphia. The first round of the boys' championship has been put forward until tomorrow.

RAW MATERIAL WASTED IN U. S., SAYS GERMAN

Paul Loebe, President of Reichstag, Gives His Views.

TOURED AMERICA

Capitalistic Civilization is Growing Here, he Writes.

BERLIN, Dec. 28.—"Europe's mission has been taken over by America. The United States of America is steadily and persistently dislodging Europe as the technical and economic pioneer of the world and a capitalistic civilization of gigantic dimensions is not opposed by an efficient political labor movement."

With these words, Paul Loebe, president of the German Reichstag, in an article of the Vorwaerts, summarizes his impressions gained during a visit to the United States as a delegate to the Interparliamentary Union.

Calls U. S. Wasteful.

Dwelling on the "amazing" activity in House building, road construction and development of transport systems, describing the Ford works as "putting out motor cars like grasshopper swarms," Loebe holds that the United States wastes its raw materials. "It still looks as if the enormous natural resources were inexhaustible. The land is in firm hands, we were told, but we rode through districts for miles and miles, which no hand seems to have touched, to say nothing of the swamps of New Jersey, Virginia, and the deserts of Ontario.

"Over there in the west, we were we were told by Chicagoans, who look down a bit on the easterner as influenced by European culture, over there New America grows up, where the land is more fertile and the climate more favorable.

"Technique, organization, maximum efficiency and success is everything. The standard of life of our American colleagues is undoubtedly higher. The bulk of the masses can afford to dress better and take better and more food than our workers.

"But beyond that?—With grammophone, radio and films the American worker's claim to life is exhausted. The rest belongs to the manager, proprietor, trust or banking magnate. Down in the ground floor a butcher kills pigs by the thousands, soaked with blood all over, and upstairs, in the fifteenth floor the monarch of the factory occupies his throne, a gentleman with distinguished manners and well-cultivated hands, who draws millions from the gruesome work of his employee.

"And all this is poured over with a strange mixture of piety, placing a Bible on the bedroom table of every hotel guest, opening every parliamentary session with a prayer, a piety, however, which is symbolized by the fact that four office buildings of about 200 metre height look down with pity upon a church tower of some 70 metres.

Calls Labor Weak.

"In this mammonite atmosphere labor movement, contrary to the assertions of clerical congregations, is, politically speaking, only a very light counterweight opposite Almighty capital. The world war and discord shattered the beginning of a political labor movement. Some time ago Socialists occupied seven amongst 42 aldermen seats in New York city, today they have none. The same goes with all other big cities. Socialist papers fight a laborious, hopeless battle against the big capitalistic papers. Election meetings of our American comrades, which we attended, revealed that the present status of the American Labor Movement is not much better than ours.

"What is the reason for this weakness?—The active part of the German and British labor in the United States takes all its hopes on reaching its aims by individual activity. It has, therefore, no interest in class war. Success of some individuals of lower classes, singled out by fate, intoxicates the masses. The influx of working masses incapable of organizing themselves, continues. Negroes, Chinamen, Greeks, Italians and other Balkan natives form a large percentage of American labor.

"Europe's mission has been taken over by America. I forecast that the Social powers, still latent, may one day develop as eruptively as business today."

Business in Uruguay is quiet.
